CLUB BOARD IN MEETING PLANS FOR BIG YEAR

Tuesday Afternoon Members Assured of Fine Season's Program

By KATHERINE V. SINKS
Of The Evening News Staff

FURTHER plans for Tuesday Afternoon Club organization and activity for the coming club year were formulated yesterday when the executive board met at the clubhouse in the morning and were later gathered at luncheon and in conference with the chairmen of the various committees.

Undoubtedly one of the biggest tasks of the club executives is the administration of club affairs on a budget system and to carry out this very desirable form of management of finances Mesdames Daniel Campbell, M. E. Plasterer and A. A. Barton have been placed on a budget committee.

The making of the club budget for the coming year was discussed at length yesterday and the committee appointed will thoroughly investigate all phases of club activity and form the budget accordingly.

Makes Appointment

During the board meeting a letter was read from Mrs. C. J. Gans regretting that she cannot accept the curatorship of the Americanization, Legislative Section.

It was with great pleasure that Mrs. Campbell announced that Miss Ida Myers had consented to serve the section as curator. Miss Myers is unusually qualified. In addition to being possessed of a pleasing personality she has had wide experience in affairs of the Daughters of the American Revolution, serving as California state chairman of conservation and thrift. For her splendid work she received special mention at the national congress held recently in Washington, D. C. Miss Myers is at present vice-regent of the Glendale chapter, D. A. R., and is also state chairman of conservation and thrift.

It was the original plan to have the section Americanization, Legislative and International Relations, but upon consideration of the breadth of the three subjects it was thought best to put the International Relations under a chairmanship.

Want Travel Section

An urgent request came to the club board yesterday for the formation of a travel section. The matter was passed on favorably and those sending the request are now looking for a curator to lead the group.

PEACE PACT SIGNED AT LAUSANNE

Near East Treaty Terminates Twelve Years' War For Turk Nation

BULLETIN

LONDON, July 24.—The Near East peace treaty was signed at Lausanne at 3 o'clock this afternoon, said a news agency dispatch from that city.

LAUSANNE, July 24.—Signing of the Near East peace treaty here today brings peace to Turkey after more than twelve years of almost continuous warfare. In that time Turkey fought the Balkan states twice, Italy and Greece and also took part in the world war on the side of the central powers.

Oil Claims Unsettled

The treaty contains 143 articles but omits settlement of the Ottoman debt and the Mosul oil claims.

In addition to the treaty there are fifteen separate protocols.

The American agreement with Turkey, mainly commercial in character, will be signed before the end of the week.

Snow Falls In Sierras; Mark Of 20 Years Broken

VISALIA, Cal., July 24.—Snow fell last night in the high Sierras east of here. The fall was light and melted an hour after sun up. It was said to be the first snowfall in July in twenty years.

Showers were quite general over Tulare county last night and this morning.

The rainfall may have damaged the prune, raisin and peach crops slightly, though the fruit was quick to dry out under the sunshine.

The past two days have been extremely sultry.

HARDING WILL REPLY TO CRITICS

Review of Alaska Conditions Will Be Theme of Talk at Seattle Friday

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service

ABOARD U. S. S. HENDERSON WITH PRESIDENT HARDING EN ROUTE TO VANCOUVER, B. C., July 24.—The critics who found fault with President Harding's speeches on his westward trip across the continent will be answered in a series of addresses the president plans making in Seattle and southward to San Diego.

The more than three weeks that have elapsed since the president spoke last in Tacoma have allowed him ample time to weigh the results and witness the reaction to his score of addresses on his outward trip. These reflections will be embodied in his coastwise utterances. His outward bound speeches which aroused controversy, such as foreign affairs at St. Louis and the agricultural situation at Hutchinson, will probably be retouched upon during the Pacific coast journey.

According to the present plan, the president will make his Seattle speech Friday a round-up and summary of his Alaskan trip. The president is known to deem Seattle the proper place for such a speech, inasmuch as it is the gateway to Alaskan territory.

Will Talk on Farming

Agricultural conditions will probably be retouched upon at Sacramento, Calif., and it is not unlikely that the president will reply to the recent utterances of Senator Brookhart of Iowa. Since the president has been absent from Washington, the Minnesota election, revealing still widespread discontent among the rural populace, has convinced President Harding of the need for more presidential utterances on this problem.

The problem of foreign affairs will be dealt with again in San Francisco July 31.

The Henderson was steaming today off Charlotte sound. No stops were made in order to gain time to allow President Harding a few hours for fishing in Campbell river tomorrow. He has been promised the best trout fishing in Canada there. The party arrives in Vancouver Thursday morning.

Film Favorite Seeks Freedom from Husband

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—A divorce complaint charging William Wellman with desertion and non-support was on file in superior court today by Helene Chadwick, film actress, who is seeking her release from matrimonial bonds. Their married life lasted one year and twelve days, it was stated.

Wabash Railway Will Purchase 50 Engines

WASHINGTON, July 24.—The Wabash railroad applied to the interstate commerce commission today for authority to issue $2,010,000 of 5½ per cent equipment trust certificates to be used in financing the purchase of 50 locomotives.

SHE CAN SPEND IT

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—Gloria Swanson's salary as a screen star, which was attached a few days ago in a suit brought by her former attorneys, Wright, Bauer & McDonald, has been released by an order of the superior court and she was privileged to use it as she pleased today.

COMMITTEES FOR PICNIC ARE NAMED

Elaborate Function at Annual Rally Planned by Merchants' Association

The appointment of the various committees at the regular weekly meeting in the Citizens Building yesterday marked the inauguration of the complete plans for the annual picnic of the Glendale Merchants' Association, that is to be held in the Haddock-Nibley Verdugo Park on Wednesday, August 15, and which will, it is predicted, be the outstanding event of its kind during the present season.

H. M. Butts heads a committee consisting of City Manager W. H. Reeves and F. C. Butler that will call on Mayor Spencer Robinson to ask him to issue an official proclamation calling on all the local business houses to close during the day set for the picnic; the concessions committee consists of Wm. Hunter, chairman, W. P. Potter and Albert Cornwell; the dance committee will be selected by Don H. Webb, chairman; R. Ernest Tucker, secretary of Community Service, Chas. J. Hatz and Eugene E. Gordon constitute the sports committee; and the advertising committee that will broadcast the news of the picnic plans to the citizens of Glendale consists of Ole Andresen, chairman, F. C. Butler and C. A. Stewart.

Advertising Committee

A permanent advertising committee was appointed, to have charge of the entire publicity work and advertising of the organization for the coming year. This committee consists of C. J. Hatz, chairman, Eugene E. Gordon, W. C. Winkler, Frank Cornwell, Ed Nisle, J. A. Robinson, C. C. Sherrod, H. S. Webb, W. C. Page, W. E. Trice, S. F. Bell, Ed N. Radke, K. S. Long, R. L. Dines and W. G. Lauderdale.

The association agreed, by a narrow majority, to set aside $250 to be used in decorating the streets of the city on the occasion of President Harding's visit here on Friday, August 3. This amount will be added to the $500 donated by the City of Glendale and the $250 given by the Chamber of Commerce, but the association will take no official part in the reception to the president. Its members, however, will carry out their individual ideas in the matter of decorating their places of business and for participation in the events of the day.

Outlaw Oil Officers to Face Indictment

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—Officials of at least ten "outlaw" and "wild cat" oil companies will probably be indicted, it was predicted today, following presentation of an astounding character showing that residents of southern California had been fleeced out of millions of dollars, when the federal grand jury resumes its investigation.

Of the ten companies, it was learned, several had their origin in Texas, and the federal grand jury decided yesterday, it was said, that it already had enough information in hand to indict officials of three of them.

Though several of the companies under scrutiny originated in Texas, it is possible to seek indictments here, it was claimed, because thousands of their alleged victims are in southern California and in the local federal jurisdiction.

PROSECUTOR SLAIN

LONDON, July 24. — Public Prosecutor Haas of Frankfort, Germany, was killed during a communist demonstration in that city, said a news agency despatch from Berlin this afternoon. Haas received fatal wounds when the reds raided his home. His wife and father were injured.

W. B. Kirk Writes Of Sea Trip And Visit To Christiania

TRANS-ATLANTIC voyaging is pictured today for Glendalians in the travel letter from W. B. Kirk to The Glendale Evening News readers. Mr. Kirk's letter today tells of "Sailing, sailing, over the boundless main," and of a visit to Christiania, Norway. He writes:

W. B. Kirk

"June 29.—Well, folks, I have a confession to make. I have been seasick. Very few people of my age have had less serious sickness than I have, so I imagined that the sea would do little more to me than make me uncomfortable. Such was the case for a few days, but finally I 'got' it. Not as bad as some folks, but bad enough. I ate nothing but a little soup for forty-two hours, couldn't even retain cold water. I was able to sleep at night, however.

"When I awoke Wednesday morning I felt that I would never want to get up, but the family insisted that I try to eat a little breakfast, which I did successfully. Then I negotiated a little lunch and in the afternoon was able to go on deck. Since then I have been all right, eating normally, but carefully. I must say that the eats on this line are bountiful and good. I am told they are better than on any cabin-line. The wife is a splendid sailor and the daughter has had only little, temporary trouble. The sea is now smooth, and, in fact, they tell me that we have had good weather all the time, and ask me what would have happened if we had struck a storm. I don't know, and I don't want to know. I notice that nobody on ship-board makes a butt or joke of 'mal de mer,' and I never will again.

"They say we have passed a few ships, 'The Oscar II' of this line, and a French liner, but I haven't seen one. The cold has given way to milder temperature, as we are in the gulf stream. It is lovely now.

"In a book issued by the steamship company, I notice some strangely worded Copenhagen 'ads'. One by a butcher, reads 'Bacon, Heads and Toes'. Another, 'Eggs, Fresh-laid and Pickled'. Another, 'Sweden offers, owing to its extended situration—and its shifting nature, the most suitable object of tourists' travels'.

"As this and other letters and cards will have to be mailed at our first stop, Christiansand, Norway, I have discovered that the Norwegians, although their prices for other things may be quite reasonable, certainly stick it to us in postage rates.

Europe in Sight

"For each ounce they require forty ore (pronounced 'err') or eight cents. For a postcard, twenty-five, or five cents. The Norwegian 'krone' is now worth about sixteen and two-thirds cents in our money. The Danish korna, about a cent and a half more, but the Swedish is nearly par. The normal value of them is 26.8 cents.

"June 30, 5 p. m.—At last we have our first sight of Europe! We have just passed the small outling islands of 'The Hesperides,' rising in large rocks out of the ocean, shaped like the hills in Griffith Park. None of us are very much excited about it, perhaps the long trip and struggle with 'mal' has tamed us.

"We will be in the North Sea tomorrow, but probably will not reach Christiansand before night. Our chilly, cloudy weather has changed to misty rain and we can see little.

"I think the wife is gaining and my appetite is keen. The captain is giving us all an extra 'feed' tonight. With the stops we are

HOLDUP MEN SHOOT, ROB VICTIMS

Man and Wife Shot by Thugs; Bandits Secure $3500 In Robbery

EVERETT, Wash., July 24.—Two persons were shot, one probably fatally, one man was beaten and robbed, three automobiles held up, and loot valued at more than $3,500 seized by two bandits on the Pacific highway north of here early today.

Finley McKee, manager of the Lyman Lumber company, Hamilton, Wash., is at the Arlington hospital with a bullet wound in both lungs and may die. Mrs. McKee, his wife, is at the same hospital with a wound through both her thighs.

Accompanied by his wife and Walter J. O'Brien, C. E. Skelton of Spokane, stopped his machine to examine a suit case he observed in the middle of the pavement near Sylvania. He was accosted by two armed and masked men and robbed of $3,500 in cash, checks and jewelry.

FILIPINOS TO ASK NATIVE GOVERNOR

Wood's Recall Is Demanded In Resolutions Passed at Night Meeting

BULLETIN

MANILA, P. I., July 24.—The Philippine independence commission, composed of members of the legislature, after another all-day session adopted a resolution calling for the appointment of a governor-general, preferably a Filipino, whose appointment "would assure the progress of the government and the welfare of the people."

By NORBERT LYONS
For International News Service

MANILA, P. I., July 24.—Meeting again today the Philippine independence commission, composed of members of the Philippine legislature, was expected to voice a desire for a Filipino governor-general to suceed Governor-General Leonard Wood.

At an all-night session the commission passed resolutions demanding the recall of Governor Wood, supporting the stand of the resigned department secretaries and urging the granting of absolute and immediate independence.

Most of the members of the commission are not in Manila at present, and nearly all the members of the Democratic party were absent from the meeting. The recall resolution said:

"It is the sense of the Philippine legislature sitting as an independent commission that the present governor-general be immediately recalled and substituted by another who will maintain and respect our laws and who will consequently interpret the spirit of the Jones law which guarantees us the greatest possible autonomy in administration of the domestic affairs of the country and that this committee be instructed to draft a resolution requesting the president of the United States to comply with this demand."

103 PERSONS KILLED IN TRAIN WRECK

PARIS, July 24.—One hundred and three persons were killed and 200 injured in a collision between Bulgarian trains on the Sofia-Varna line, said a Sofia dispatch to L'Inthansigeant today.

GUARDSMEN IN CRASH; FIREMAN KILLED

OAKLAND, July 24.—One trainman was crushed, two others slightly injured and a number of National Guards from Salt Lake City shaken up and bruised when a special train in which the guardsmen were traveling crashed into a freight train outside of Centerville this morning. The dead man is R. Y. Deering, an Oakland fireman.

PERMIT DRY AGENT TO CROSS BORDER

MINNEAPOLIS, July 24.—United States prohibition enforcement agents will be permitted to cross the border into wet provinces of Canada in pursuit of rum-runners, narcotic smugglers and automobile thieves, effective on Wednesday, it was announced today by Sherman A. Cunes, personal representative of National Prohibition Commissioner Roy A. Haynes, after a conference with S. B. Qual, state prohibition director, who just returned from Winnipeg, where he was in conference with Canadian officials.

STAY OUT OF EUROPE, IS WARNING

Chicago Banker, After Six Months' Study Abroad, Expresses Opinion

NEW YORK, July 24.—A warning to the United States to "stay out of Europe" was issued today by George M. Reynolds, chairman of the board of the Chicago Continental & Commercial National bank, on his return from a six months' study of economic conditions abroad.

Reynolds declared the "lack of co-operation" between European nations prevented the United States from lending a helping hand" in restoring normal economic conditions. He voiced "unalterable opposition" to American participation in settlement of the reparations dispute.

"I studied conditions abroad for six months and I am more than ever convinced that we must stay out of Europe and mind our own business," said Reynolds.

Must Wait, He Says

"America cannot help Europe now because Europe will not help herself. We must wait until there is a stabilization of politics and until European nations show a willingness to co-operate with each other. The ill-feeling now existing between various governments abroad forbids the United States extending any aid," he said.

The Chicago banker declared his observations abroad had confirmed a previous opposition to European proposals for cancellation of American debts.

"I have always been strongly opposed to cancellation of our debts," Reynolds added. "There is continual talk of it abroad, but my trip has only confirmed my previous opinion. It would not help Europe's economic stabilization."

Farmer's Problem

Reynolds whose bank is a dominating factor throughout the whole wheat belt of the west, was asked about his plans for helping American farmers.

"The confidence of the American farmer must be restored," he replied. "You cannot legislate him prosperity and there must be an adjustment of conditions. The farmer's problem is to the United States as the Ruhr and reparations are to Europe.

"I believe one of two things must happen. Either the farmer must get higher prices for his products or the things he buys must be reduced. Otherwise there will be no way of helping him."

Woman Suspect Will Not Go Upon Stand

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—With the preliminary hearing of Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich, charged with the murder of her husband, Fred Oesterreich, wealthy Milwaukee manufacturer, set for tomorrow, a new sensation in the case was sprung today when neighbors told of an alleged visit of two men to the Oesterreich home a short time before the manufacturer was slain.

The two men made their call, it was said, while Mr. and Mrs. Oesterreich were attending a party at the home of friends, from which Oesterreich returned to meet his death.

It was stated today that Mrs. Oesterreich will not take the witness stand at the preliminary hearing.

Way Of Holding Cigar Leads To Suspect's Arrest

MONTREAL, July 24.—The peculiar manner in which he held his cigar today led to the arrest of Michael M. Dugan, former secretary to James W. Corrigan, a Cleveland, Ohio, millionaire, on the charge of defrauding an Ohio bank out of more than $450,000.

The arrest was made by J. R. Burns of the Pinkerton detective agency. He identified Dugan in James street after noticing that the man held his cigar in the same peculiar manner as shown in a snapshot of Dugan.

Dugan, who was also known as Frank L. Maclane, is alleged to have defrauded the bank by means of forgery and raised checks.

AGED COUPLE FIGHT DUEL TO DEATH

Man and Wife Shoot, Hack Each Other In Quarrel Over Business Sale

NEW YORK, July 24.—A quarrel over the sale of property early today caused the double murder of Anthony Giordano, aged 63, and his wife, Teresa, 61, in their East Side home. They shot and hacked each other to death in a frenzy of rage.

Girodano had sold his store about a month ago and ever since he had quarreled with his wife about the transaction.

Last night the family, consisting of father, mother, two daughters and a son gathered at the son's home for a birthday celebration. They returned home at midnight. The daughters in a locked off room, had just fallen asleep when they heard shots. They tried to enter the part of the house where the parents were sleeping, but were unable to do so.

Scene of Bloodshed

A detective who happened to be passing heard the uproar, the whole tenement being aroused, and broke into the Girodano apartment. A scene of bloodshed and disorder confronted him. On a bed lay the bodies of the aged man and woman.

The man's throat had been cut and there were three bullet holes in his body. The woman's hands were nearly chopped off and there were five bullet holes in her body. The bed and floor were soaked with blood.

Scattered about the room the police found two revolvers, a bloodstained hatchet, a stiletto and a razor.

Police said no arrests would be made.

"Father" of 57 Plans to Fight Extradition

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—A fight to prevent the return of Dr. Helon B. Allen, asserted "father" of 57 legally adopted children, to Pittsburgh, Pa., to face an indictment of violating the Mann act loomed here today when Allen's attorneys said they would institute habeas corpus proceedings to obtain his freedom.

Despite this, local authorities declared they contemplated action against Dr. Allen, based on alleged misconduct with Mrs. Helen Cruze, his housekeeper, and two "daughters," Myrtle Cruze and Myrtle Enloe, who were found living in the same house with Allen when he was arrested.

Spectator Killed As Crash Wrecks Plane

FAIRPLAY, Colo., July 24.—Will Oakley, 39 years old, one of a crowd of spectators, was killed here late Monday when an airplane piloted by George Marbut of Denver plunged fifty feet in a nose dive, splintering the propeller, a piece of which struck Oakley, crushing his skull.

The plane fell within a few feet of the crowd and many persons were showered with splinters from the propeller but all except Oakley escaped with bruises and scratches. Marbut and his passenger, Earle Dennis, escaped with minor injuries.

DETECTIVE KILLED

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 24.—City Detective George W. Moore was killed and Detective L. W. Hays was seriously wounded in a gun battle here today when they attempted to arrest two unidentified confidence men.

SIX BANDITS STAGE BOLD HOLDUP IN TORONTO

Fourteen Employes Victims of Robbery In Streets of Ontario City

TORONTO, Ont., July 24.—Fourteen messengers and guards were held up here today, $84,000 in currency stolen and three bank employes critically wounded, in the most daring holdup in the history of this city.

Six armed bandits carried out the robbery in broad daylight in the heart of the financial district.

The wounded men, all bank messengers, are W. S. Buck, J. W. Harris and David Campbell.

The messengers were returning to their banks from the clearing house, under heavy guard, when they were suddenly attacked.

The bandits shot to kill, aiming at the men who were carrying leather bags filled with currency.

Bandits Open Fire

The currency belonged to four banks—Sterling bank, Bank of Nova Scotia, Union bank and Standard bank.

According to the employes of the Bank of Nova Scotia, the party had just crossed a street corner when the bandits opened fire.

Two messengers and two guards from the Sterling bank were at the corner where they were halted by a motor car which was backing up.

The robbers ran around the rear of the car, setting upon the currency bearers.

JAIL THREE IN MYSTERY SHOOTING

Doctor, Policeman, Woman Being Held; Hunt For Fourth Person

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—Three persons, one of them a policeman, are in the city jail, and police are attempting to solve a series of mysteries which took place at the home of Dr. Paul Featherstone in West Thirty-ninth place early today during which several pistol shots are said to have been fired during the height of an alleged "wild party."

Those under arrest are Dr. Featherstone, Patrolman George Bruel, who was said to have been found drunk in the house, and Mrs. Helen Baker, found by the police sitting in a chair with her clothing covered with blood. Officer Bruel is charged with suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon, while Mrs. Baker and Dr. Featherstone are held as material witnesses.

Search for a fourth person, a woman known only as "Marguerite" and a companion of Dr. Featherstone, was started when Bruel and Mrs. Baker declared the doctor had left the place with his friend shortly before the police arrived.

Take Testimony In A. A. Baines' Trial

Testimony was begun this morning in the trial of A. A. Baines, shoemaker of 312 East Broadway, who is charged with alleged violations of liquor laws. J. W. Wilson, giving his occupation as an electrician, was on the witness stand for the prosecution when Judge F. H. Lowe continued the case until 2 o'clock this afternoon. He claimed to have purchased a pint of whisky from the defendant on June 25.

The jury, which seemed difficult to obtain, is composed of the following: Bertram A. Young, Mrs. Lena Roberts, Frank J. Marshall, Gladys J. Martin, Everett Masters, Paul Mason, Mrs. Blanche S. Litchfield, John A. Legge, Roderick E. Nern, Walter Parsonage, Myron R. Lowe and Orville Painter.

BUDGET PLAN IN CLUB IS FURTHERED

Tuesday Afternoon Organization Arranges For Season's Program

serve the club during the coming year have been announced by Mrs. Campbell as follows Mrs. H. R. Boyer, Mrs. Helen Sawyer, accompanists; Mrs. R. A. Blackburn, auditor; Mrs. W. P. MacMullin, civics; Mrs. Parkhurst Cory, calling; Mrs. Alexander Mitchell, courtesy; Mrs. A. P. Findlay, general curator; Mrs. J. M. Eyerick, decoration; Mrs. Stephen Packer, gifts and memorials; Mrs. C. J. Newcomb, historian; Mrs. Homer Lockwood, hospitality; Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, house; Mrs. Leroy W. Bosserman, juvenile protective association; Mrs. F. S. Card, local relief; Mrs. Frank Ayars, mailing; Mrs. R. W. Meeker, membership; Mrs. P. S. McNutt, parliamentarian; Mrs. S. C. Leppelman, patriotic; Mrs. T. H. Hudson, philanthropy; Mrs. J. T. Crampton, publicity; Mrs. John Robert White, reciprocity; Mrs. J. B. McClellan, remembrance; Mrs. W. E. Evans, federation secretary; Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, ways and means; Mrs. C. W. Houston, year book.

Included in the club organization will be noticed several new committees, including: Mrs. B. O. Holbrook, Indian welfare; Mrs. Eugene Gilliland, representative for ex-service men; Mrs. Harry Lockwood, furnishings; Mrs. Arthur Pomeroy, club literature and "Club Woman;" Mrs. Hugh Blue, international relations; Mrs. John Hobbs, conservation; Mrs. C. J. Higgins, community singing; Mrs. E. S. McKee, motion pictures; Mrs. Minnie Patterson, emblem; Mrs. A. M. Hunt, badges.

There remain three committees for which chairmen are yet to be chosen, the history and landmarks committee, psychology committee, and anti-narcotic committee.

Plan for Development

A year of development along all lines of club activity is destined for the club for 1923-1924, if the many plans of officers, curators, and committee chairmen are carried out.

According to the report on the compilation of data for the new year book, the club has to date 986 paid up members. At the final meeting of the past year over 1000 were enrolled, but, with resignations and failure to pay dues the total number has been reduced to 986.

It is the hope of Mrs. Campbell that as many of these 986 women as are in Glendale will be on hand to join in the welcome of President and Mrs. Harding August 3. Mrs. Campbell is to serve on the official reception committee and the club women will occupy a prominent place along the line of march of the presidential party.

There were twenty-seven officers and commiteee chairmen gathered around the luncheon table yesterday after the board meeting. At each place was a card bearing a quotation either on service or friendship, and these were read during the luncheon hour. The chairmen were also informally introduced by Mrs. Campbell, who instructed each as to her duties.

Outline Activities

The scope of the club work planned for the next year may be seen in the activities lined up for the philanthropy committee alone. This unit of the club will participate in the following, Glendale Red Cross, ex-service men's affairs, Salvation Army's affairs, and True Love and Vacation homes; local relief in Glendale; Rest Haven; George Junior Republic; Florence Crittenden home, Children's Hospital, Monte Vista home; Maternity Cottage, Orthopedic Hospital, County Hospital, Y. W. C. A. and Travelers' Aid, Community Service, Vacation homes at Venice and Redondo, Good will industry.

Many additional gifts for the clubhouse were announced and noted throughout the building. Also the new awning over the glass in the palm room, the new awning over the east porch of the banquet hall were reported complete. Plans are now under way for extending the parking around the clubhouse and putting in lawn east of the building.

As a return courtesy to the Elks, who so generously gave the use of their clubhouse on East Colorado street for a Tuesday Afternoon club affair a year ago, the Tuesday Afternoon club women have asked the Elks to accept the use of the Tuesday Afternoon club house for one evening during the summer time. The Elks have heartily accepted and will give a big affair at the clubhouse Friday night, September 14.

The Tuesday Afternoon club women are planning to arrange a Community Service program for December.

Woman Realty Dealer Joins Plumb Forces

Edith May Osborne, one of Glendale's well-known realtors, who was formerly connected with the Yale Brothers' Realty company, has just recently become associated with the W. Wallace Plumb Realty company, which is located at 229 North Brand boulevard. Miss Osborne states she will be glad to welcome her many friends and customers at her new location.

Saintliness lies not in facial expression but in the soul that radiates beneath.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Shower Honoree

A miscellaneous shower Saturday afternoon at the Los Angeles home of Mrs. C. P. Blakemore at 3944 Ingraham street, honored Miss Dorothy Walsh of 342 North Kenwood street, who is to become the bride of John Wiggers some time in September. Miss Walsh is the daughter of Mrs. Ethel D. Walsh. Mr. Wiggers is chief engineer of the Moreland Motor Truck company.

At the affair at the Blakemore home decorations were in pink and white, roses and pink sweetpeas being used in profusion.

During the afternoon the thirty-five guests hemmed tea towels for the honoree.

Upon serving of a lunch later the hostess presented Miss Walsh with a beautiful bride's cake artistically iced and having on the top a miniature bride and six tiny bridesmaids. Upon trying to cut the cake Miss Walsh discovered the exterior covered a large box filled with a shower of miscellaneous gifts.

Added pleasure was when little Bobby Bill 2-year-old son of Mrs. Blakemore, came in wheeling his wheelbarrow decorated in white and containing more gifts for the honoree.

Another feature was a large birthday cake, with birthday greetings scrolled across the icing and annuncing Mrs. Blakemore's birthday anniversary.

The guests were friends from Los Angeles and Glendale.

Picnic Supper

A number of Glendale young people and their friends enjoyed a pleasant outing one evening recently at Santa Monica Canyon, when they participated in a picnic supper served on the sands and later a dancing party at the Bon Ton, Venice.

The party included, Miss Ruth Ryan, Miss Helen Neal, Miss Roma Staub, Miss Dorothy Danner, Miss Isabel Yates, Miss Ramona Ryan Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Bullock, Joe Wright, Richard Ryan, Jack Marsh, Jack Herbert, Frank Marsh of Glendale and Miss Teddy Henry, Miss Mildred McMichael, and Claude McMichael of Los Angeles, Paul Lamar of Culver City, and Ray Stinson of Highland park. Mrs. Harry Ryan of West Acacia avenue chaperoned the party.

Artists to Meet

The Artist section of the Glendale Music club is to hold a meeting Friday afternoon, July 27, at 3 o'clock at the home of Miss Gertrude Cleophas at 1337 North Central avenue.

All artist members of the club are urged to attend, as the program for the coming year will be presented for their approval.

Miss Cleophas states that the object of this section is "to promote closer co-operation between the artists and the community and also to further the work of local artists".

Affair Tonight

Mary Jane Gillett Tent No. 18, Daughters of Veterans are entertaining tonight at 8 o'clock at the American Legion Hall with a card party and social. Miss Audrey Hall is chairman of the committee of arrangements.

A cordial invitation is extended to all members and their friends. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Methodists Defeat Christians In Game

Methodists trimmed the Christians to the tune of 14 to 8 last night on the high school diamond in the Community Service Indoor Baseball league. Tonight's game will be between teams representing the Glendale postoffice and the Standard Oil company.

Tomorrow's game between Newton's Electrics and the City Hall is expected to attract a large crowd. The winners will have an opportunity to play the Night School for the championship.

LOS ANGELES VISITOR

Miss None Peet of Los Angeles is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jackson of North Jackson street.

DEATHS---FUNERALS

HARRY R. BRINK

Dr. V. Hunter Brink of 1124 South Central avenue, pastor of the Central Avenue Methodist church, left last night for Hutchinson, Kan., where he was called by the sudden death of his brother on Sunday, July 22, 1923.

Mr. Brink, who was the youngest brother of the Brink family, leaves a wife and three children.

The death of Rev. Brink's sister occurred last October and his many Glendale friends are extending their sympathy to him in the death of his brother, the second in the family within a period of nine months.

AMOS WESTWOOD

Funeral services for Amos Westwood of 409 East Harvard street were held at 11 o'clock this morning, Tuesday, July 24, 1923, under the direction of Kiefer & Eyerick in the Little Church of the Flowers, Forest Lawn Memorial park.

Mr. Westwood was born January 1, 1852, near Wheeling W. Va., and was 71 years of age. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary S. Westwood and a daughter, Mrs Mary M. Worthington of 409 East Harvard street and a sister, Miss Anna Westwood of Wheeling, W. Va.

Mr. Westwood came to California thirty-eight years ago and had lived in Glendale for the past two years.

Social Tonight

A summer social is to be held tonight at the Pacific Avenue Methodist church and all members and friends of the church are invited to attend.

During the evening there will be a program including piano solos by Eugene Halfinger; vocal solos by Mrs. Rebecca Waite, musical instructor of Ventura high school; readings by Wadsworth Harris, Y. M. C. A. entertainer overseas during the war.

Refreshments will be served later in the evening and members of the Aid society, who have each earned $1 will tell in rhyme of their accompiishment.

Informal Luncheon

Mrs. D. D. Horning and daughter, Mrs. Helen Walker, of 519 East Windsor road, were hostesses Monday at an informal luncheon.

The table was centered with old-fashioned garden flowers in a charming combination of colors.

The guests were Misses Emily and Grace Moser of Chicago, who are enjoying a summer visit on the coast; Mrs. Ralph Pickette of Gardena avenue, a former resident of Chicago, and her house guest, Miss Elsa Loacher, a recent arrival from the Windy City.

Meet Wednesday

The members of the Lester Meyer chapter of War Mothers, of which Mrs. Florence Padelford is president, will hold their regular meeting tomorrow afternoon, Wednesday, July 25, at 2 o'clock, at the Odd Fellows hall.

The members of the R. T. W. class of the First Baptist church will hold their regular meeting Thursday afternoon, July 26, at 2 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. J. F. Skaggs, 1002 East Orange Grove avenue. Assisting hostesses will be Mrs. M. Larkins and Mrs. E. Alter. A good attendance is requested.

Doctor Buys French Engine for Airplane

Dr. T. C. Young of 620 East Broadway is looking forward to the arrival of a new 190 horsepower French Renault motor for his Curtis OX5 biplane. The new motor will give his plane a greater range of action. Its lift will be increased from an altitude of between 8000 and 10,000 feet to between 15,000 and 18,000 feet. Its potential speed will be increased from between 75 and 80 miles per hour to between 90 and 95 miles per hour. The new motor is believed to be the most powerful on any privately-owned plane in this vicinity.

Dr. T. C. Young, who owned the fourth automobile in Glendale, is the first local business man to own and operate his own plane. He takes a keen interest in aviation and has an interest in the Glendale Airport where his hangar is located. Me makes flights whenever the time can be spared from his practice and frequently arises early Sunday morning to enjoy the panorama of the San Fernando valley from the clouds.

Admit New Members to Lankershim Legion

Five candidates were initiated into the Lankekrshim Post of the American legion last night by a team from Glendale.

Besides legion officers from Los Angeles, Pasadena and Long Beach the session was attended by a sextette of legionnaires from Glendale: Commander Chalmer Day, Treasurer Henry L. Prussing, Adjutant Charles Gibb, Chaplain Harley G. Preston, A. E. Baron and Clarence Edwards.

The importance of the legion not only to former service men, but also to a community was emphasized. The meeting was of an enthusiastic nature. Its purpose was to inspire and encourage the Lankershim post.

Boy Escapes Injury When Car Hits Wheel

Eben Seidenglanz, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Seidenglanz, of 426 Burchett street, escaped injury about 6:20 p. m. yesterday when he was knocked off his bicycle by an automobile. He was taken to the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital but was able to go home a short time later.

Mrs. Florence M. Owen of 2845 West Avenue Thirty-four, Los Angeles, was turning her car off Brand boulevard to go west on Broadway. Eben is alleged to have turned in ahead of her on his wheel in such a manner that she could not turn quickly enough to avoid striking the rear wheel of his bicycle.

Gas Company to Sell $500,000 in Bonds

SACRAMENTO, July 24.—An order by the railroad commission authorizes the Coast Valleys Gas & Electric Company to issue at not less than 90 per cent of their face value, plus acrued interest, $500,000 of its first mortgage 6 per cent bonds due March 1, 1952. Of the proceeds obtained from the sale of the bonds, $294,840 may be used by the company to reimburse its treasury on account of monies expended for extensions, additions and betterments.

RADIO ENLIVENS MOUNTAIN CABIN

Glendale Families Listen In On Distant Cities In Arrowhead Camp

A letter from Mrs. Don S. Erskine, of 1238 South Maryland, who is spending the summer at their cabin at Cedar Glen, Lake Arrowhead, will be of interest to her many friends in the southern section of the city.

Mrs. Erskine and daughter, Dorothy, and Mrs. H. A. Eddy and little daughter, Barbara Jane, left Glendale soon after the close of school for their summer home in the San Bernardino mountains. Mr. Erskine and Mr. Eddy join their families for the week-end and other Glendale people find their way to this hospitable cabin. Mrs. Erskine's letter is as follows:

"I thought you would be interested to know that we have installed a radio in our cabin and have had great success in getting San Franiscco and Portland. We get Los Angeles very faint, but can tune in to San Francisco at any time.

"Our week-end guests were Frank Le Noir and Dr. Irvin Warren and Mrs. Frank LeNoir and son, Jr., are with us for the week.

"We are having lovely weather, very cool in the evenings. We sure need covers at night. We have been swimming and boating almost every day. The lake is wonderful at this time of the year. Well, I must close and get some lunch, you know we all have to eat."

AUTOMOBILE FOR BAIL

Claxon Young of La Crescenta was brought before Judge F. H. Lowe in the police court this morning charged with reckless driving on May 31. He failed to obey a citation to appear in court previously. His case was set for Friday and he was permitted to leave his automobile for bail.

PICKS GLENDALE FOR PLANT SITE

Aprons and House Dresses to Be Manufactured Here In Modern Factory

The "Forget-Me-Not" brand of aprons and house dresses are now being manufactured in Glendale at 724 East Colorado street, the M. A. Barsam Manufacturing company, originators and producers of that brand of goods, having moved their factory from Los Angeles to this city.

M. A. Barsam, owner and proprietor of the concern, states that he selected Glendale as the headquarters for his business after looking over prospects in several other southwest cities in and about Los Angeles county.

"We are opening here with fifteen sewing-machines and will employ from twenty to twenty-five girls at the start," he states. "As the business grows we will add to this number. It is my ambition to erect a modern manufacturing plant here in Glendale for this line of merchandise, should things develop as I am confident they will."

Mr. Barsam was engaged in this line of business for twelve years in Cincinnati, Ohio.

BIRTHS

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Siple, of Los Angeles, formerly of Glendale, Sunday morning, July 22, 1923, at the Glendale Research Hospital.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Burns of 310 North Cedar street last night, Monday, July 23, 1923, at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

Ice skating was introduced in Spain this year by means of an artificial ice rink, but was considered too fashionable to be popular.

GLENDALE'S PROPERTY
values are increasing faster than any other city in Southern California. The reason for this is that Glendale's population is increasing faster than any other city in Southern California.
The value of real estate is not increasing any faster than it did twenty years ago according to its growth in population. Glendale has four business or public highways running directly through the city.
There is just so much frontage on each of these highways and each one is going to increase in value in proportion to its traffic.
STUDY
SAN FERNANDO BOULEVARD
Study San Fernando Boulevard and you will see that the property has more than trebled in price in the past twelve months, and is still exceedingly low according to the growth and the traffic upon this wonderful highway.

Offers To Trade Auto For Wife, Divorce Charge

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—Containing the assertion that Vance R. Bowman offered to trade his automobile for another man's wife, there was filed today a complaint for divorce against Bowman by Lillie Alice Bowman.

The complaint recited that Bowman became much interested in another woman and told her he would trade his automobile to her husband for her. Bowman also was alleged to have used abusive language to his wife and caused her mental suffering.

TUJUNGA

THEATRE INSTALS NEW PIPE ORGAN

Music Lovers Enjoy Program Accompanying Pictures On Wurlitzer

The new Wurlitzer pipe organ has been installed in the Tujunga Valley Theater and found very successful. It has been in use for several days, and the audiences have enjoyed the music very much. The action of the organ is controlled by the film operator in the projecting room by electrical devices. Special music in keeping with the character of the pictures is played.

Richard J. Smith, building contractor, has opened offices in the Tujunga Valley Bank building. Plans will be drawn in the office hereafter, and a drafting table and accessories have been installed.

A store house and tool shed is being built and a complete outfit of everything necessary to construction work will be kept there.

Mr. Smith was awarded the contract for the new building being erected by Judge Breidt on Sunset boulevard that is to house the post office. He also has several other buildings under construction, including the new residence of John S. McGroarty, on Freidlong avenue; a residence for Mr. Adams of the Pacific Southwest Bank of Los Angeles; a residence on Pine street for Mr. Woodward; the Home of Health at Hillhaven road and Michigan avenue, and a home for himself on Citrus street.

Women Give Social

The Ladies' Aid Society gave an ice cream social Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Jenkins on Monte Vista boulevard. A musical program was enjoyed and ice cream and cake were served.

C. E. Hollingsworth and I. W. Hicks of Highland Park have purchased the home of Mrs. Mable F. Dean. This was one of the first places built in the Western Empire subdivision, about thirteen years ago.

Among the many visitors enjoying the hills Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Lester D. Gerow and Mr. Gerow's parents of Inglewood; Mr. and Mrs. J. Clark and Mrs. Wolf of Los Angeles; Walter Jones, proprietor of Hallmark Transfer, Los Angeles; Dora Graham, of Los Angeles; a party of eight who spent the day picnicking at the Garden of the Moon and swimming in the plunge there, including George Kresler, Jack Binman, O. T. Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. Al Hoffman, Walter Lodge, Miss Cora Lettlen, Georgia Funsten, Lucille Holman and June Wayland.

Three dancing parties motored to Tujunga for the Saturday evening music at the Garden: Mr. and Mrs. Otis Kilrain and party, including Jean Smert, Alice Perkins, Orville Stuart and Al Putnam, all of Glendale.

Birthday Party

Ellison A. Farnsworth of San Fernando celebrated his twenty-fifth birthday anniversary with a dinner for six at one of the boulevard inns and dancing at the Garden. His party included John Klimper, G. A. Farrel, Joyce Merrill, Eileen Watson and Blanche Thorsen.

The third party was made up of the junior members of a Los Angeles fraternal society. There were three large automobile loads. The music by Wessner's orchestra and the appointments of the Garden of the Moon are winning a reputation that is not limited to the valley.

"Prudence Penny," the well known newspaper woman and authority on household subjects and domestic science, called at the F. A. Graham home Sunday evening. She has been in Tujunga many times and contemplates building there if a suitable location is found.

Hour of Children's Concert Is Changed

Change in the time of the children's concert that is to be held Saturday, July 28, at the Hollywood Bowl by the orchestra under the leadership of Emil Oberhoffer is announced by R. Ernest Tucker, executive secretary of Community Service, who has been notified by Mrs. Dora L. Gibson, head of the music department of the Glendale Union Hight school that the hour for the concert has been set at 4 o'clock, instead of 4:30 as originally planned. This will mean, Mr. Tucker states, that the children and those who are donating the use of their cars for the occasion, will leave the high school grounds at 3 p. m.

Chicago has twenty-three miles of lake frontage.

HOTEL PLANS AT BOARD'S MEETING

Structure to Be Started As Soon As Directors Can Arrange Details

The board of directors of the Glendalia Hotel company will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the offices of the company, 116 South Brand boulevard, announces J. B. Burn, secretary.

he meeting is a continuation of the adjourned session of July 19, when plans for the $400,000 hotei to be erected at the northwest corner of California avenue and Brand boulevard were discussed.

At tonight's session Mr. Burn states, sketches and floor plans submitted by a half dozen architects and engineers will be considered in detail. Some of the plans call for a four-story and some for a five-story structure.

$350,000 Available

"We are endeavoring to push along the erection of this structure as rapidly as is commensurate with good business," says Mr. Burn. "But it is necessary to give very careful attention to all angles of the preliminaries, as this is a large enterprise and must do credit not only to its directors and stockholders, but to Glendale and the entire Southwest.

"The first quarter of subscriptions due on sale of the capital stock of our company is due and being paid in at the present time. It will total approximately $31,000. The entire amount of stock subscribed is $125,900. The cash on hand, in addition to this, totals $233,000, making over $350,000 available for construction of this hotel.

LODGE TO STAGE THREE BENEFITS

Boxing Bouts, Indoor Circus And Entertainment Are Planned by Elks

Sending the Glendale Elks band to the state gathering at Eureka is occupying the attention of Glendale Elks lodge members and plans for three big benefit affairs for financing the venture were outlined at the lodge meeting last night.

The first affair will be a big boxing event Thursday night, August 9. Following this a mammoth indoor circus will be staged at the clubhouse on East Colorado street Friday night, Saturday afternoon and night August 24 and 25. And the final big benefit will be a high class entertainment presented at the Tuesday Afternon clubhouse, Friday night, September 14.

The boxing event will be a feature one and even of wider interest than the two affairs of the kind given recently.

The indoor circus will include all kinds of entertainment and will undoubtedly add materially to the desired fund.

Club Reciprocates

As a return courtesy the Tuesday Afternoon club has offered the Elks the use of the entire clubhouse. It will be recalled that a year ago the club women were given the use of the Elks clubhouse for a big benefit.

At the affair in the Tuesday clubhouse it is the plan that the Elks band will appear in the new uniform to be worn north.

At the meeting last night the singing of the songs for the convention was a great success and will be a live feature of the northern gathering. Eight new members were voted on at the meeting and they will be initiated next Monday night.

CROQUET SHARKS STAGE CONTESTS

Cerritos Avenue Playground Sees Mallet Experts Hold Tournament

An elimination tournament in croquet is in progress at Cerritos avenue playground this week. Entries who are first to date, are Jack Fleming, Hugo Sprenger, Sam Henry and Mildred Poppers.

Wednesday, a croquet team of two members from Cerritos will meet a high school playground team at Cerritos grounds. A close contest is expected. The games of croquet are growing in popularity at all the playgrounds.

The five hole golf course is also quite a center of interest. The boys are improving and have decreased the last week's record of thirty-five. Sam Henry and Raymond Pardo have made the five in twenty.

Pitching horse shoes is also becoming popular and a tournament with the other playgrounds is to be arranged very shortly. H. E. Bremer, director at Cerritos, reports the attendance has been running as high as thirty-seven per day.

FOR USE IN MINES

A substantial cash prize has been offered in England for the safest and most efficient type of electric storage battery locomotive for use under ground in coal mines.

Continue Hunt For 13 Escaped Mad Criminals

CHESTER, Ill., July 24.—Redoubling their efforts with the capture early today of four more escaped inmates, prison authorities and posses who are scouring the countryside for miles around were confident that the remaining thirteen who escaped from the Illinois Hospital for the Criminal Insane would be caught before nightfall.

Dr. O. C. Stubblefield, superintendent of the institution, said this morning the posse had rounded up and returned twenty-eight of the forty-one prisoners who fled through the hole torn in the prison fence in Sunday night's uprising and delivery.

JULY BUILDINGS SHATTER RECORD

Total For Month Exceeds All Previous July Figures In City's History

This month's building record will exceed that of any July in the history of Glendale. This is not a prediction, but a certainty. With seven business days left to go this month, the total for the month already exceeds any previous July.

Buliding permits already on the books this morning totaled $442,350. This sum is $67,500 in excess of the total of $374,850 for July 1922; $179,825 in excess of the $262,525 for July 1921, and $139,970 in excess of the $302,970 for 1920.

Exactly $53,175 worth of building permits were issued yesterday increasing the total for the year to $5,611,285.

Permits issued yesterday included the following:

Doidge & Barton, 12-unit court, 110 West Maple street	$ 30,000
L. L. Mockenhaupt, duplex and garage, 511 North Adams street	6,250
Johanna Hagen, duplex, 421 W. Los Nita Dr.	5,200
John Beyers, dwelling, 1135 Elm Avenue	3,000
H. A. Peterson, 5 rooms and garage, 524 State street	3,300
Bertine Pinkny, 5 rms., 1235 Linden street	2,500
Arthur C. Burrill, residence, 1113 E. Harvard street	1,500
Mrs. Forrest D. Jones, 3 rooms, 706 South Verdugo road	1,000
George W. Watson, garage, 1522 Dixon	400
C. B. Hill, garage, 1810 Glenwood road	250
E. C. LeJeunessee, addition, 1166 Spazier St.	200

BUYS CORNER AT STOCKER STREET

August Ebsen Will Remodel And Improve Property With 2-Unit Court

Burton "Homes" McGinnis of 152 South Brand boulevard this morning reported the sale by C. L. Chandler of 125 West Broadway to August Ebsen of 308 East Acacia avenue of the southeast corner of Maryland avenue and Stocker street, opposite La Ramada Park.

Following the extension of Maryland avenue from the northern city limits through Casa Verdugo to Randolph street, this property has a frontage of 250 feet on Maryland avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Ebsen are making plans to move into the eight-room frame residence at 200 Stocker street. This is being remodeled.

Mr. Ebsen, who is manager of the Rock Bottom Market at 133 South Central avenue, plans to improve the entire property as rapidly as possible. He has approved already plans for a $7000 two-unit Spanish court.

Because of its shrubs and trees one of the most desirable sections of the city for homes, in the opinion of Mr. McGinnis is the vicinity of LaRamada Park.

Three Glendale Men Get On Federal Jury

Three men well known in Glendale have been selected to serve as talesmen on the federal term jury in Judge Bledsoe's court where liquor trials are in progress. They are H. P. Coker, Lynn Stanford and E. D. Yard. Three dozen others will enjoy their vacations in the dank halls of justice down by the plaza.

BURGLAR IN HOME

While Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Harbor of 626 West California avenue were visiting early last night, their home was entered through a side window. A Waltham watch, a small kodak and about $8 in change were taken from a dresser in the bedroom. Upon their return about 9:45, they reported the burglary to the police department.

KIRK WRITES OF TRIP ON ATLANTIC

Glendale Man Has Many Interesting Experiences While at Sea

still three days from Copenhagen. My next letter will be from there.

"July 2.—"Sailing, sailing, over the boundless main,' is the thought that comes to us as we continue our long journey. We missed the view of the passage between Scotland and the Orkneys because it was too early in the morning. The wife waked and was up a little while. She could see only the lighthouse, but she said that the breaking day was heralded in the most beautiful tints of turquoise and blue—indescribable!

Nights Are Short

"These nights of ours are now only about two hours long. The glow of the setting sun can be seen up to 10:30. No wonder, when we consider that we are in about the same latitude as Greenland. We will probably not be able to take the trip to North Cape, where the midnight sun can be seen. It takes from one to two weeks from Trondhjem, the boats are small and the sea apt to be rough. 'Nuf said. Moreover, there is the possibility that the weather might be foggy when we got there and we wouldn't see the sun after all. This is near enough to a twenty-four-hour day for me.

"Sunday (yesterday) in the North Sea was cold and windy. Last night most of the passengers stayed up to see our passage between the islands at the extreme southern end of Norway, as we went into Christiansand.

"We had gone to bed, but I awoke at the unusual sound of our whistle, and the propeller stopped, the first time in nine days. I slipped out of my berth and looked out. The water was very still, like glass, and I knew we were in a bay. Going over to the other side of the boat and sticking my head through the port-hole, I had a view which I shall never forget.

Like Fairyland

"It was just 2 o'clock, the moon was shining full, but the day, even then, was breaking. A few visible sails showed boats at the piers, about a quarter of a mile away, and beyond the still water the shore line of Norway and glimpses of a town in the peculiar, ghost-like, shadowy light made a fairyland beyond my power of description. There was absolutely not a sound at our end of the boat, but at the other end I could see launches alongside and a few passengers, mail and baggage being lowered by cranes. In a few minutes I could hear the throb of our engines again.

"July 3.—Hurray! We've finally set foot on European soil after eleven days of constant sailing from Boston and twelve days from New York. We docked in Christiania about 2 p. m. today. The trip along the southern coast of Norway and up through the Fjord was fine. The day was beautiful, nice and warm. The bordering hills are pine-covered, little towns and resorts dot the shore line, showing houses with green gardens around them, and finally the capital city of Norway came into view. Very picturesque it is, extending far up the hills in either direction, overlooking the Fjord.

"As we were docking, the strange, old-fashioned buildings with small windows certainly told us that we had reached another country, but the crowd on the dock looked like regular people, even the flappers. As we had a stay of seven or eight hours, of course we went ashore and took a street car uptown.

Autos From U. S. A.

"Say! If you've never had the experience of being dumped out directly from America into a foreign port, you've got something coming. Everything was interesting, from the woman conductor on the strange looking cars to the old-fashioned, obsolete carriages, which were all about. Amid the strangeness, however, we still felt that 'the government at Washington still lives,' when we noticed a dozen Ford chassis on the pier and then saw Buick, Cadillac, Dodge and Essex taxis, all the latter of ancient design. Out of our boat, however, we afterward saw unloaded a lot of Hudsons and Durants.

Cemetery In Town

"The streets of Christiania are very narrow and winding and little parks are scattered about. After looking up a tour of the Fjords at 'Bennett's Tourist Agency,' we took a car ride out to a large park containing beautiful trees and oh! the prettiest lilacs you ever saw. They grow into large trees. On the way out there, however, we passed a very large cemetery, right in the heart of the town, full of old weather-worn gravestones, looking very unsightly.

"The buildings of the town all seem very substantial. The prices of everything seemed very low and we did a little more shopping. Street car fares are about 3 cents in our money and we three took a taxi back to our boat, about a mile, for 45 cents (2.34 kroner).

"We are going back to Christiania, so didn't attempt to see it thoroughly. We pulled out for Copenhagen with the dim shore line of Sweden on the left. We will reach Copenhagen before 'the Fourth.'

"July 4.—We are here, in a fine, strange city. We'll see something of Denmark in the next three days and will write you about it. Four of our warships in the harbor look mighty good to us."

In the next letter Mr. Kirk will sketch the city of Copenhagen.

That Saving Smile—Have You One?

The man who has one smiles heartily because the thrift of his youth has enabled him to take advantage of the opportunities that come later. He sees independence ahead.

The wife smiles because of her independence. Her savings enable her to face the world with free hands, a mighty comfortable feeling. Throughout her life she spent wisely and saved regularly. This policy has a lot to do with that saving smile. When you reach the later years of life and become a grandfather, will you have improved your opportunities sufficient by your savings to earn your own independence?

Commence saving now and save systematically.

EAGLE ROCK

ENROLLMENT AT SCHOOL GROWING

Many Features On Program For Summer Session at Eagle Rock

The enrollment at the summer session of the Eagle Rock school as it is now known, has increased from 240 the opening day to over 275 at the present time, reports Mrs. Reed, principal of this school, which was known as the Central, until changed by the Los Angeles officials.

Many new features mark the progress of the session. One group of girls is learning the mysteries of fruit-canning. The jars were furnished by the Parent-Teachers' association of the school, it being planned to use the product in the cafeteria this coming fall.

Last week the class delved into the hoary art of biscuit-making, producing goods that were said to be quite edible—but it is not planned to use any of this product in the cafeteria! Though when fall comes it is thought likely that later models of these biscuits, very similar in material and workmanship, will be available for juvenile appetites.

These experiments are being conducted under the supervision of Miss Christenson.

Kindergarten for West End

The San Rafael Parent-Teachers association, formerly known as the West End, is working hard to get a kindergarten for this section and petitions for the purpose have been prepared.

Mrs. S. B. Osborne, 138 North College View avenue, announces that parents may now come to her home and sign these petitions which must be signed and turned in to the Board of Education at the earliest moment, as the board is holding up the appointment of a teacher for said kindergarten until the attitude of parents in the vicinity is learned.

If inconvenient to call and sign the petitions in person, Mrs. Osborne states that residents may phone Garvanza 2168 and she will send them for signature.

Swimming Party

The Business and Professional Women's club held a swimming party last night at the downtown Y. W. C. A., as a result of Miss Marion Jones having the idea and getting her fellow members interested.

The young women who worked downtown had their dinner there then went to the Y., where they rested a while before taking their plunge, joined by a number of young women who work in Eagle Rock.

The Business and Professional Women's club will entertain the Professional and Business Women's World on Saturday afternoon and night, July 28, at Bessola Villa, 155 Ellenwood drive, from 4 until 7 o'clock.

Improved Car Service

A slight improvement in the car service is promised; the new schedule calling for a cut from fifteen to twelve and one-half minutes between cars, during the middle of the day; while fifteen minutes is the interval at night, instead of twenty minutes, as formerly.

Nomadic cattle raisers sometimes dig from fifteen to twenty feet in the sand of a dry river bed to reach water for their large herds of camels.

BURBANK

AWARD CONTRACT ON SCHOOL WORK

Additions Will Provide More Room for Students in Classes of 1924

Contracts have been let for the construction of additions to the Abraham Lincoln and Joaquin Miller schools, Farley & Farley of Burbank being awarded the general contract on each school, while the plumbing contract was in each instance awarded to the Jewel City Plumbing company of Glendale.

The total amount of accepted bids on the two schools is $17,523. which Superintendent Collins reports as covering addition to the Joaquin Miller school of two large class rooms and addition to the Abraham Lincoln school of one large class room.

The rooms being added to the Miller school are to go at each end of the rear, making a balanced and harmonious appearance when complete, provision for these aditions having been made when the school was erected.

Mr. Collins feels that this work is being contracted at a very reasonable figure and that when finished the rooms will stand as a low record for construction of that type in southern California.

Work is to be commenced at once, and the new rooms will be finished by the opening of the fall term.

Business Women to Picnic

On the night of Thursday, August 2, the Business and Professional Women's club will hold a picnic and dinner at Brookside park, Pasadena.

Steps are being taken to acquaint business and professional women of Van Nuys, Lankershim and San Fernando with this well-organized and highly efficient local body, in order that they may have an opportunity to become members and share in the many benefits afforded.

The Business and Professional Women's club has decided that in future, business and social meetings will not be mixed but that one night each month will be devoted to each type of session.

Members Subscribe $17,000

The building fund for the new clubhouse for the Sunset Canyon Country club has been swelled to $17,000, as a result of the first two of a series of finance meetings being held to raise the needed $100,000, reports Mr. Covington, chairman of the building committee.

Enthusiasm for the new building is gaining momentum, Mr. Covington states. He expresses himself as confident that the needed sum will be raised in the time allotted.

W. S. Gorringe, who has been golf instructor at the club, will now have charge of the course and the caddy house, Mr. Watson having retired from this position.

Mr. Gorringe is a golf expert with a wide reputation and numbers many pupils other than those to whom he offers instruction as members of the Sunset Canyon Country club.

MINOR OPERATIONS

A minor operation was performed upon L. J. Burton of 1206 South Maryland avenue this morning at the Glendale Research hospital.

Arrange for Children to See Harding Party

In order to permit the children of Glendale an opportunity to see the president of the United States when he comes here on Friday, August 3, it is planned to establish a zone for them on the west side of Brand boulevard, between Harvard street and Broadway, where they will be under the care of such school teachers as are in Glendale on that day, members of the Rotary club, and Sunday school teachers. Parents who wish their children to watch the parade from this point of vantage can bring their children to the high school grounds at 10 a. m. on Friday, August 3, and they will be cared for with the rest of the youngsters.

SUNLAND

INTEREST SHOWN IN SUB-DIVISION

Rainbow Valley Tract Scene Of Mountain Beauty, Attracts Buyers

A new subdivision that is rapidly becoming popular is the one on the western boundary of Sunland known as "Rainbow Valley." This tract is located along the Tujunga river where Big Tujunga canyon opens up and spreads out into a wonderful little valley with a charm all its own. It is on the paved state highway and roads have recently been constructed through the tract.

There is a model stone cabin bungalow on the grounds, an example of the artistic and convenient architecture popular in the section. The proposed country club grounds are near this tract and, if carried out, the plans call for a golf links and clubhouse, with tennis courts, gymnasiums and so forth. The tract is located only a few miles from the site where the dam will eventually be built in Big Tujunga and will be near the lake to be formed by this barrier. Sunday was souvenir day at the Rainbow Valley tract office. Every person who registered was given a ticket to the Motion Picture Exposition in Los Angeles. This tract is on one of the most heavily traveled thoroughfares in southern California and when the Pacoima wash bridge is finished, now under construction, the travel over the route will be at least doubled, is the expectation of residents who have observed the phenomenal increase in the last year, since the bridge over the Tujunga river was finished.

Live Up to Slogan

Gene Murphy's slogan is "Knock 'em dead." Ask Sunland. They of the hilarious shirts smacked Sunland to sleep by a count of 8 to 5 Sunland on the Monte Vista park grounds. Both scored one run in the first inning and rambled along in a tie until the fourth, when the howling haberdashers cut loose two runs.

Sunland staged a run gathering tournament in their fifth that netted three runs and the home folks became more hopeful with the score four to three in their favor. But it couldn't last.

In the sixth the Irish cuff and collar kings got rough with Bidwell's slants and poked various and sundry hits to all parts of the diamond and scored four runs before the worthy Bidwell found out what it was all about. Score in the sixth, 7 to 4 for Murphy. They added another in the eighth and Sunland tried hard in the ninth, but only succeeded in getting one useless run.

Waite for Sunland and Morgan for Gene Murphy each got three singles out of five trips to the mat. Terzo hit .500, getting two out of four. Stalcup whipped fifteen and Bidwell fooled twelve with his hooks. Each allowed but two bases on balls, showing good control. Collins, Murphy's short fielder, poled a home run and Wiley, a team-mate, got the only three-bagger.

Wednesday night of this week there will be a baseball dance at Twin Pines pavilion. Spikes and umpires barred.

Next Sunday the poisonous Ptomaine Tommys return to Sunland to even up for the defeat they got two weeks ago. The two clubs expect to put on the feed bag at Twin Pines after the game.

DECLARED SUICIDE

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—After an investigation conducted by the sheriff's office and lasting more than a week, the death of J. A. Farnsworth, former Whittier city employe, was officially declared today as suicide. The disappearance of $100 in bills from the man's body

LEONARD MASTER OF 135 POUNDERS

Dazzling Showing of Speed Against Tendler Shows Champion's Genius

NEW YORK, July 24.—The crown that old Joe Gans shelved may now in all propriety be hauled out, dusted off and placed firmly on the brow of Benny Leonard.

Never in his palmiest days did the marvelous negro lightweight display anything that would overshadow the dazzling exhibition of the lightweight champion last night before 60,000 fans in the Yankee stadium in decisively winning over Lew Tendler of Philadelphia in fifteen rounds. Here are some of the things Leonard did:

He outpointed the Philadelphia star in each round except the first, which was a tame affair.

He made Tendler fight as he (Leonard) desired, never for a minute in the whole bout permitting the Philadelphian to set the pace.

He completely smothered Tendler's justly famed left hand, the hand which has time and again brought opponents down with one punch.

Tendler's Master

He demonstrated beyond doubt that he is Tendler's master in every particular.

There was only one thing which Leonard set out to do that he did not accomplish. That was to knock out the challenger. It seemed from the thirteenth round on that the champion would accomplish that, but Tendler stuck it out, mainly because of his ability, in the parlance of the ring, to "take it". Leonard landed several terrific right hand punches both to the body and head in the closing three rounds and Tendler reeled around like a drunken man, but he remained upright, grimly continuing to the end.

In the thirteenth round Tendler, dizzy from the effects of a sizzling one-two combination—a left jab followed by a straight right to the head—missed a swing and fell to his knees.

Leonard was poised to leap in and deliver a finishing punch when the challenger arose, but the referee, Andy Griffin, fooled clumsily in rubbing the resin dust off Tendler's gloves and the few seconds respite enabled the Philadelphian's head to clear sufficiently for him to stick out the round.

Leonard's victory places him absolutely in a class by himself as far as the present day lightweights are concerned. Tendler, without a doubt, a great lightweight, was so decisively whipped that he himself was the first to concede it.

"You're a better man than I am, Benny, and that's from the heart," he declared a few seconds after the final bell rang and he and the champion stood in the middle of the ring, patting each other on the back. Tendler was bleeding rather freely from the nose and from a cut under the eye. Leonard was unmarked.

GATEWAYS SCORE OVER CHEVROLET

Covell, with 676 Points, Leads in Monday s League Match

The Gateways won the odd game from the Smith Chevrolets in last night's match in the Glendale City league. Covell was the big shooter, getting 676 pins.

Tonight the Jensen Drugs meet the Page Furniture team.

Offer Big Bonus If Senators Win Flag

SACRAMENTO, July 24.—As an incentive to the soaring Senators to continue their upward climb toward the first rung of the Pacific Coast League ladder, now held by the San Francisco Seals, Sacramento sportsmen are making plans to hang up a handsome bonus for the home team in the event they win the pennant.

The bonus movement is backed by Frank J. Ruhstaller, local capitalist and sportsman.

Dundee and Criqui Ready For Contest

NEW YORK, July 24.—Johnny Dundee and Eugene Criqui are ready for their bout for the featherweight championship of the world at the Polo Grounds Thursday night.

Criqui, the champion, and Dundee, the challenger, are down to weight, and have eliminated boxing from their training programs. Dundee weighed 126 pounds yesterday and the Frenchman scaled 125.

SPORTS CHATTER

William M. Johnston, California's premier tennis player has bagged big game on the courts of Europe during his brief sojourn there. He won the world's hard-court title in France and then followed it up by taking the world's championship on grass at Wimbledon—the last time this title will go with the event for the Davis Cup seems to have abrogated this to itself.

Those who have been watching Johnston say that he never played better in his life. That he is heavier and stronger, one of the most important things as far as Johnston is concerned for, all the time, he has not been rugged enough to stand the strain. With Johnston weighing ten more pounds than he now does and a little more rugged he probably would be rated the greatest player of all time.

The sensation of the tennis world at this writing has been Mannel Alonso, the Spaniard. There is no question that he is one of the world's top notchers and it would surprise no one, if in the national singles, championships he did not displace some of the first half dozen men in the American rankings.

Whether this is Johnston's year in the national championships remains to be seen. The great little San Francisco star appears to be playing sounder tennis than ever, and from what he has shown this year it would appear that there are only two men who have a chance against him.

Tilden is back in the game, and may be expected to play as good tennis as ever, though there are many who believe that the injury to his hand which required the amputation of a finger has slowed him up. They deduce this from the result of the close matches against Alonso. Perhaps these Tilden enthusiasts are not giving the Spaniard sufficient credit for the game he has been putting up.

The fact that he beat Kinsey of San Francisco, a rating player, and performing at the top of his game, is no mean proof of Alonso's prowess. It may well be said that he will force Vincent Richards down from his third place in his rankings.

The WORLD OVER

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

In contrast to the great public receptions accorded Gibbons, a losing fighter, and young Jones the national open golf champion of the United States, the lack of anything of the sort to world's champion Jack Dempsey is significant of the disesteem in which he is held by the general public.

In future when the Hearst newspapers publish a "telegraphic" photograph of a fight, it will furnish an interesting game to guess what photographs of a previous battle were retouched and substituted.

The New York boxing commission makes it dreadfully hard for us to keep track of the various champions. By arbitrarily uncrowning Joe Lynch and separating him from the bantam title, Joe Burman of Chicago now becomes the title holder in New York while the rest of us are struggling along with Lynch until his headpiece is removed through some other medium than the sayso of a Gotham committee.

According to the "faked" telephoto of the Gibbons-Dempsey battle, the identical persons sat in the identical seats at this fight that they did in the Dempsey-Willard battle at Toledo. One would have thought that the bright young men of the Hearst pay roll would have thought of this, but when they make no secret of the fact that the Hearst publications are written down to the ten year old brain.

A rather formidable series of attacks on the English Channel will be made during August by a number of strong long distance swimmers who are anxious to say with Captain Webb that they negotiated this difficult strip of water. If we were compelled to bet on the question we would stake our money on the Channel and not on the swimmer.

Exhaustion is the main bugbear of the Channel swimmer. He is in the water a long time and the various tides and currents necessitate a constant battle in the effort to overcome the heavy drift that occurs. The combination of feeding and physical exercise is not one that mixes and the great problem that yet has to be solved is the discovery of a minimum of fuel with the greatest potency. Nourishment during the swim defeats its own end in many instances.

Rain Makes Course Slow For Golf Stars

MAYFIELD COUNTRY CLUB, CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 24.—With an all-night rain making the going harder, the second round of qualifying play in the western amateur golf tournament got under way here this morning. The field, smaller than yesterday on account of withdrawals, started play at 8:30 o'clock when the first pair teed off. Other pairs followed at five minute intervals, until 1:15, when Chick Evans, present champion, starts play with James A. Kennedy, Oklahoma champion.

According to present indications, a total score of not more than 156 will be required to qualify.

Bathers Park Clothes In Jail, Are Robbed

YREKA, Siskiyou Co., July 24.—Mermaids of this city, who have been in the habit of "parking" their clothes in cells of the old city jail while enjoying a plunge in the new memorial tank, have found the practice too costly.

Bettors Pick Criqui to Defeat Dundee

NEW YORK, July 24.—"Off with the old love and on with the new"—Gotham today set itself for its next championship fight.

Johnny Dundee, the bounding Italian-American ruled sentimental favorite over Champion Eugene Criqui, the invader from Verdun with the sheep's jaw.

Criqui, however, carried the odds of the gambling fraternity.

The meeting is set for Thursday night at the Polo Grounds and 40,000 fans are expected to see the "battle of the year."

Both fighters are to make 126 pounds at 2 p. m. Thursday.

Another Circuit Hit By Kenneth Williams

ST. LOUIS, July 24.—Effective twirling of Uhle, of the Indians featured the 9 to 2 trimming the tribesmen handed the Browns here yesterday. Uhle was touched for seven safeties, but experienced only one bad inning—the fourth. Kenneth Williams, of the Browns, rapped out another circuit drive.

THEATRES

THE GLENDALE

The cast assembled for "Your Friend and Mine," the film offering now at The Glendale theatre, includes the famous author of the piece, Willard Mack, and, in addition, Enid Bennett, Rosemary Theby and several other noted players.

Clarence G. Badger, the director, deserves a great deal of credit for the masterly way he has handled this dramatic material. The photoplay has real suspense, and contains some very elaborate sets. The lighting is uniformly good, and the camera work of Rudolph Bergquist is excellent.

"Your Friend and Mine" was produced by Sawyer-Lubin pictures and is released by Metro. The story, as a stage play, won Mr. Mack fame several years ago. Nothing of its dramatic strength has been lost in the adaptation.

THE GATEWAY

For every foot of "Safety Last" that went to swell the total of seven thrilling reels, virtually nine feet were thrown into the cutting basket, which goes to show by what patient and tireless efforts Harold Lloyd has reached the top of the film world.

"Safety Last" was almost six months in the making. It is the first seven-reel feature comedy this popular star has turned out. A total of 126,060 feet of film were shot, or roughly twenty-five miles of raw film stock. Of this twenty-three miles were developed and over ten miles printed.

And then, when it was all cut and boiled down to the requisite seven reels, Harold Lloyd and his pretty wife and co-star, Mildred Davis, had "Safety Last" previewed in seven different theatres before releasing it. The result is a comedy masterpiece.

Sport Snaps

by JACK KEENE

Although Cummings of the Stars of Brooklyn receives credit for being the first pitcher to curve a ball, John Montgomery Ward, star second baseman with New York and other teams back in the early days of baseball, can lay claim to being the first college pitcher who ever shot a curve across the plate. At least this is the contention of Will Foster and C. A. Krouse, Penn State "grads" in the late seventies and early eighties.

"Monty" Ward, who is now a successful lawyer in New York City, entered Penn State in 1873 and in the spring of 1875, along with Frank Knoche of Harrisburg, and Charles Shee of Philadelphia, he organized a Penn State nine. Ward was the pitcher, and so famous did his curve ball become that he was soon pitching for teams in surrounding towns. The original box score of the first Penn State game, with Milesburg, in 8875, is still preserved, but, unfortunately, it records a defeat for the Nittany Lions of those early days by a 28 to 20 score.

A recent letter from Ward to Graduate Manager Neil Fleming confirms the details of those early days of baseball at Penn State and relates many amusing incidents of the early games. Although Ward himself lays no claim to distinction as the first college curve ball pitcher, his teammates of those years contend that he is entitled to the honor.

TAGGING ALL BASES

The Giants went on a slugging spree in the eighth inning, knocked Weinert out of the box and beat the Phils, 8 to 4.

After battling 11 innings to a 3 to 3 tie, the Pirates went to pieces in the 12th, gave the Chicago Cubs nine runs and lost, 12 to 3.

The Cincinnati Reds had things their way until the seventh, when the Cards pounded in six runs off Rixey and won, 8 to 7.

Uhle pitched and the Indians defeated the Browns, 9 to 2, in the only game played in the American league.

SACRAMENTO, July 24.—E. G. Twogood, acting director of the State Department of Institutions, announced today that the Stockton Sate Hospital has produced $158,000 worth of poultry and garden truck during the past twelve months. The hospital's farm lands are on Sherman island.

COTTON MILLS CO. TO DOUBLE PLANT

Offers Stock to Public In Profit Making Industry of Southland

In order to double its present facilities, the Imperial Cotton Mills company, of Los Angeles, whose fiscal offices are located at 624 South Spring street, is offering an authorized issue of $1,500,000 of 8 per cent preferred stock, cumulative, participating up to twelve per cent with the common stock of which $1,500,000 has been sold, and the proceeds invested in the property, mills and machinery of the present business, and convertible into common stock at $125 per share.

The issue of preferred stock is being offered at $100 a share, fully paid and non-assessable, and it is felt by the officers and directors of the company that every southern California investor will want to participate in the assured large profits of this broad-gauge Los Angeles enterprise.

Wide Experience

Those at the head of the Imperial Cotton Mills company are among the most prominent business men of the west. F. M. Douglas, president, has for the past twenty-five years been a leading banker. He was formerly vice-president of the California bank in Los Angeles, and is at present a director of the Citizens' Trust & Savings bank of that city, vice-president of the First National bank of San Fernando, and vice-president of the San Fernando Valley Savings bank; while Charles H. Fish, treasurer and general manager of the company, has been identified with the cotton textile industry in the east for nearly twenty years, and was for four years president of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers; W. L. Williams, vice-president in charge of sales, brings to the company thirty years of textile experience, sixteen years as west coast representative for a number of prominent eastern manufacturers; and Glenn B. Chadwick, secretary, has had years of experience as a banker and manufacturer.

Prominent People

The directors of the Imperial Cotton Mills company comprise William Lacy, president of the Lacy Manufacturing company and vice-president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce; R. B. Hardacre, vice-president of the Security Trust & Savings bank, main office; J. H. Ramboz, vice-president of the Merchants' National bank; A. W. Ellington, formerly president of the Warman Steel company and a director of the Southwest State bank; Dr. H. F. Bishop, physician, of Alhambra; F. R. Galbreath, owner of the King Machinery & Manufacturing company; Edward M. Fowler, of the Fowler company, cotton merchants; Edward Mathie, formerly president of the Mathie Brewing company, and Jefferson P. Chandler, attorney for the company.

The depositaries of the organization are the Security Trust & Savings bank, and the Merchants' National bank, both of Los Angeles.

New Law Abolishes Famous Gretna Green

CROWN POINT, Ind., July 24.—Crown Point, Indiana's far-famed Gretna Green, may lose prestige and many fat fees as a result of the bill recently passed by the Illinois Legislature abolishing the law prohibiting the remarriage of divorcees within one year after their divorces.

Chicago residents wishing to take a second partner soon after being legally severed from a first have long made it a practice to come to Crown Point for the ceremony, to avoid the Illinois law. Justices of the peace have waxed affluent and Crown Point marriage parlors grew more and more prosperous.

Last month 700 marriage licenses were issued here, more than half to Illinois residents. The local quick-marriage specialists are wondering how much their trade will be cut now that Illinois divorcees can marry at home unrestrictedly.

MARKETS

NEW YORK, July 24.—The stock market closed weak today. The reactionary movement continued in the last hour, comprising practically all classes of stocks.

Copper shares, which escaped with early unsettlement, were marked down, 1 to 2 points. Railroad stocks continued heavy. Petroleum issues also were heavy, Pan-American receding nearly 3 points to 62, and California Petroleum a fraction to 21¼. Government bonds were irregular. Sales today, stocks 491,400 shares; bonds, $7,818,000.

In Grain Markets

CHICAGO, July 24.—Despite bullish crop reports grains sold off scantily today and at the close were well under yesterday's last sales. There was little indication of firmness, save for a brief flurry immediately after the opening. Views that wheat has gone as low as it will were given small credence. Offerings of wheat on the cash market were large in spite of reports of slow movement. Wheat closed ⅞ to 1⅞c lower. Corn finished unchanged to ⅞c off. Oats was ¼ to ⅜c off. Provisions were generally lower and trading dull.

There are about 1500 farms in Canada given over to raising foxes and other fur animals.

TELL OF EXPERIENCES IN TRIP AROUND WORLD

Glendale Grows East, West, North and South, Also Up! Progress Prevails Aplenty!

By GIL A. COWAN

WHEN the old residenter bestirs himself in Glendale and gets out and sees the sights of a growing city there is a surprise in store for him. It is too bad that more people do not study conditions here more closely and profit thereby, for so many people come in from the outside and in their unsophisticated innocence proceed to take the cream and sugar of this land of milk and honey.

Believe me, brethren, they do. Just wander around town, or ride about in an automobile if you wish, and look at what's what and who's who. Fifty per cent of the new structures in this city, one must allow, are being erected by people who are very recently from "somewhere back east." They are the wise birds, too.

Down in the southern section of Glendale there are a half dozen business structures in process of completion, so to speak. Really, it looks as though a man-sized boom has hit what we used to know as Tropico. New theatre, almost new bank, half a dozen more stores and quite a collection of apartment houses.

Yes, We Have Growth

Over in the west end of town, to be a bit colloquial, there are enough factories housing enough industries to support a small-sized city. And there are a couple of auto camps to boot, of which we had none two years ago. Yes, Glendale is growing right over to Griffith park with a vengeance. Los Angeles ought to have known better than to allow a park to lie around careless like that for Glendale to annex in spirit, if not in actual fact.

Going north, you find folks are building all over the hillsides where they can look down on the rest of the town with enjoyable pride in its growth. It is an inspiration to note the fine homes on every side—we mean hillside, of course—and the more the merrier.

To the east there are more homes, but two principal objects attract attention, one being the new Glendale Union High School plant and the other the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital. So much has been said about these, there isn't much use to talk about 'em today. The whole idea is to get you stirring about to see the progress of Glendale.

Credit to Community

On the level and in the very heart of things, the Security Trust and Savings Bank is putting up a pile, a building we mean, that is going to reflect credit on the community, also some shadow at Broadway and Brand boulevard. Six stories in height, it is going to make some of the near-sighted people who couldn't see Glendale grow so fast look a long way to see the top.

The contractor is doing a lot of work behind those impressive wooden walls, having thousands of dollars' worth of material stored inside which keeps it out of the way of the motor caravan passing the corner daily. At any rate, it is some sizable enterprise, worth watching.

And over at the corner of Maryland avenue and Broadway another building is going up for the Burn-Davis combination, while a little farther east several new structures are planned. So right here with other plans we had better haul sail and give you a chance to absorb all that is really under way before burdening your mind with the future.

That's almost too good to be true.

BUMPER CROP IS PROMISED STATE

Favorable Weather Brings Wheat and Barley on in Splendid Shape

SACRAMENTO, July 24.—California is assured of bumper crops this season as a result of the favorable weather conditions that have prevailed throughout the state for the past two weeks, according to a prediction made by Director G. H. Hecke of the State Department of Agriculture, which is based on data compiled by E. E. Kaufman, agricultural statistician of the California Co-operative Crop Reporting Service.

Hecke declared that harvesting of the crop is progressing rapidly, 50 per cent of the wheat crop and 70 per cent of the barley yield being in the sack.

Although the wheat crop in some sections is below the average, the crop generally is comparatively good.

Good Barley Market

While there is a tendency on the part of the producer to hold his grain for better prices, this is not true of good brewing barley, which is apparently finding ready sale.

With regard to the fruit situation, Kaufman reported to Hecke as follows:

Comparatively speaking, temperatures this spring have been abnormally low, and instead of retarding the maturing of fruits, as expected, the opposite effect has been produced. Shipments show that up to and including July 11 over 6,300 cars of peaches, plums, cherries, apricots, pears and grapes have been shipped, compared to slightly over 2,100 cars at this date last year.

Home From Hospital Following Operation

Mrs. W. W. Timmons of 538 East Windsor road, who has been dangerously ill following a major operation performed at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital several weeks ago, is improving so rapidly that she has been taken to her home within the past few days.

Amount of platinum mined in the United States last year was only a little over 1000 ounces.

ELSA JANE NEAR DEATH IN CRASH

Car Halted on Verge of 1000 Foot Embankment After Collision on Grade

Elsa Jane of the Elsa-Jane Realty company, 212½ North Brand boulevard, met with a serious automobile accident while returning Sunday afternoon from Santa Barbara, where she had motored with her uncle, J. R. Howe, of 1501 South Brand boulevard.

They were approaching the crest of Conejo grade, south bound, when they came upon a line of stalled cars. In reaching for the emergency brake, Elsa Jane's sleeve caught on the hand throttle and opened it wide.

The result was a wild forward lunge of her machine, involving two other cars in a bad smash—and leaving the Elsa Jane car teetering on the very edge of the embankment, threatening every moment to hurtle 1000 feet to the bottom of the grade.

Abandon Machine

Elsa Jane and her uncle quickly descended from their hazardous perch and, with the aid of others, rolled the machine back from the brink. But they found it too badly damaged to drive and were obliged to leave it for repairs and come home in another car.

Elsa Jane hopes to slip up to Conejo some time this week, between sales, and drive her car home. When she does so, she is going to have on a dress with short sleeves, or take off the hand throttle, she isn't sure which!

Hoosiers Will Stage Annual Picnic July 28

All Hoosiers and their friends are cordially invited to attend the big annual picnic of the Indiana state society, to be held Saturday, July 28, on the picnic grounds at the southwest corner of Exposition park, Los Angeles.

President Cecil D. Wilson, city prosecutor; William D. McConnell and Miss Goldie B. Young, on the entertainment committee, are planning games for young and old, with prizes awarded the winners.

County registers will be posted throughout the grounds to enable friends to locate one another. Picnickers are urged to bring well filled baskets, as no refreshments other than coffee will be served.

The grounds are approached by taking the University car on Fifth street, between Main and Olive streets, and getting off at Thirty-ninth street and Vermont avenue.

Will Visit Tacoma On Vacation Auto Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leffman of West California avenue left Saturday afternoon on a two months' automobile tour which will take them as far north as Tacoma, Wash. While in that city they will spend several days at the home of Mrs. Leffman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Hammel.

Land Big Catch On Sunday Fishing Trip

Floyd E. Wilkes of 610 East Chestnut street and Neal Perkins of 1011 East Elk avenue enjoyed a deep sea fishing trip off the Venice beach Sunday. More than thirty "good sized" fish were reported in the catch of the anglers.

ENJOY TRIP TO BIG BEAR LAKE

W. F. Tower Tells of Motor Journey to Mountains of San Bernardino

Back from a delightful motor trip to Big Bear lake, Baldwin lake, Santa Ana canyon and other points en route, W. F. Tower of 328 North Maryland avenue, talks enthusiastically of the beauties to be found on "the rim of the world."

"We left Glendale at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning, July 17, and reached Big Bear by noon," he told the reporter, "where we selected a site in a pine grove overlooking the lake, pitched our tent, set up our gasoline stove, and there enjoyed ourselves for two days amid surroundings of grandeur indescribable."

The party comprised Mr. and Mrs. Tower and their two children, Robert and Beatrice.

"Strange to say, in our eight years here in Glendale, we had never made the run to Big Bear," continued Mr. Tower, "so the trip had an added zest of newness. We found the lake to be about a mile wide and eight miles long, varying in depth from a few feet at the upper end to 100 feet at the dam. The water from this beautiful artificial body of water irrigates the citrus crops of Redlands and San Bernardino territories.

Like Motor Boating

"We particularly enjoyed the motor boating on the lake. A good-sized family craft of this type can be hired for seventy-five cents an hour.

"The trip to Baldwin lake was delightful, every foot of the five-mile drive from Big Bear a scenic fairyland. Then, a little farther on, we came into view of the great Mojave desert, lying thousands of feet below us, a throbbing mass of color.

"We traveled many miles over dirt road, with scarcely a sign of human habitation. Once we stopped along the way to explore an abandoned gold mine, then pushed on to Holcom valley.

Resembles Yosemite

"The third day we headed for Santa Ana canyon, driving for miles through big woods that resembled the Yosemite. Here we found hosts of squirrels and chipmunks, with a good number of cattle now and then, and occasionally a cabin.

"We secured a fine snapshot of old Grayback, the highest peak in Southern California.

"That night we parked in a ravine and made camp under tall pines, at an elevation of 7000 feet. The starlight trickled down through the branches of the giant trees, while from somewhere near came the sound of dashing water.

Friday morning, July 20, we swung down into the home stretch, reaching Redlands by the Mill Creek road. We had gone up over the City Creek route. The latter is a new road out of San Bernardino. The Redlands road was not as wide as the other, nor in as good condition, but it has the decided advantage of being under control, so that cars could proceed in but one direction at a time.

Memory Pictures

"This no doubt will popularize this road with many motorists, who do not fancy the risk of having to pass cars on narrow ledges hung out thousands of feet above sea-level.

"We reached home at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, just as glad to get back as we had been to go. And we brought back with us indelible memories of lofty mountain peaks, green valleys, grazing cattle, thrilling curves, multi-hued rocks and stones of all sizes, and many other precious thoughts and impressions, all of which lead us to believe that this Big Bear trip is truly everything that has been claimed for it."

The trip was accomplished very economically, Mr. Tower states, little money being spent aside from that required to purchase fuel and food.

Vacationists Return From Big Basin Trip

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hock and daughters, Helen and Marjorie, of 628 North Central avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Wheeler of East California avenue returned Sunday night from a week's camping trip and outing at Big Basin. A splendid time was reported, stopovers having been made at Santa Barbara, Salinas, Paso Robles and Santa Cruz.

Delegates Home From Asilomar Convention

Mrs. Clifford A. Cole of 132 South Kenwood street and Miss Florence Heacock of 709 East Windsor road returned Friday night from Asilomar, where they had spent the past ten days attending the annual conference of the Missionary Educational Movement. Both were delegates of the Central Christian church of this city.

Bureau of Engraving and Printing delivered 13,354,943,861 perfect postage stamps during one year.

Mrs. James B. M'Enany And Brother, Dr. Neal Rudy, At Home From Long Journey

By ARTHUR SHERBORNE
Of The Evening News Staff

MRS. JAMES B. M'ENANY of 206 West Elk street and her brother, Dr. Neal Rudy of New York City, who is now visiting in Glendale, returned a day or two ago from a six months' trip around the world. Dr. Rudy boarded the Empress of France in New York harbor and was met at San Francisco by his sister. The itinerary followed Old Sol in his course through the heavens. The first stop was at the Hawaiian Islands, where a pause of two days was made while the vessel received additional fuel and supplies. Dr. Rudy and his sister found pleasure in visiting Honolulu. Fortunately they had time to visit the volcano of Kilauea.

After disembarking at Yokahoma, they proceeded by rail to Tokyo, where they were able to obtain an excellent view of Fujiyama, the sacred mountain of Japan which is depicted in many Japanese pictures. The horticulture of the Flowery Kingdom was much admired.

"Every corner of Japan seemed to be covered with beautiful flowers," remarked Mrs. McEnany, "Even the sides of the mountains were terraced. I do not believe that they would allow the hills around here to remain bare long. The tea plantations are wonderfully attractive."

Very Sturdy Race

The Japanese were observed to be a very sturdy race by Dr. Rudy and Mrs. McEnany. They frequently noticed coolies carrying immense loads on their backs and hauling loaded carts which would make any donkey jealous. They became convinced that the Japanese, although short of stature, are by no means weaklings.

Tokyo was observed to be a modern and model city in many respects. It has a number of wide business streets, and American department stores. Although they rode in jinrikishas for the novelty, they found the street cars well patronized, especially during the rush hours.

"The Imperial Hotel of Tokyo is the finest hotel I have ever been in" remarked Mrs. McEnany. "It was built by a Chicago man. It is a most beautiful hotel, from an artistic standpoint."

After traveling diagonally across Japan, they embarked at Nagasaki upon the Empress of France once more, which, meanwhile, had gone around the archipelago, and steamed across the East China sea and through the Strait of Formosa to Hongkong.

Bandits Considerate

Chinese bandits politely interrupted a revolution long enough to allow the 800 tourists on the Empress of France to visit Canton.

Chicago is not the only place that has an odor of its own, according to Dr. Rudy. He remarked that the potpouri of odors in Canton is just as distinctive.

While in Canton, they found that sedan chairs, carried by coolies, take the place of taxis. They were much interested in the quaint stores and the crooked streets which were so narrow that pedestrians had to crowd to one side to allow a sedan chair to pass through the street.

The next voyage was in the Empress of France to the Philippine Islands, where Dr. Rudy and Mrs. McEnany visited Manila.

The next lap of the journey brought them to the Island of Java in the East Indies where they visited the Dutch city of Batavia which has a population of 235,000 persons, most of whom care little for clothes or thermometers. They found the same conditions at Rangoon in Burma and Singapore in Indo-China.

One of the most interesting experiences of the whole trip was the journey by rail from Calcutta to Bombay, clear across India. Stop-overs were made at Dardjelling, where an excellent view was obtained of Mt. Everest, which is 29,000 feet high and the tallest peak in the world. Their route followed for some distance the contour of the "sacred" Ganges river, along which were seen a number of funeral pyres.

Benares, Lucknow and Cawnpore, all of historical interest through the Sepoy mutiny, were visited. At Agra they inspected the Taj-Mahal, which is regarded as the most beautiful mausoleum in the world.

Without Optimism

What the population of India seems to need more than anything else is hope in the opinion of Dr. Rudy and Mrs. McEnany. They observed that the attitude of the people in India to be utterly without optimism. They learned that the highest ambition of many of those in the lower castes is to be able to get to the Secred Ganges River, where they wade beyond their depths and float down into eternity. Neither as much poverty nor as much disease were seen as expected. They came to the conclusion that the people of India do not need material comforts as much as education.

One of the interesting sights at Bombay is the Tower of Silence, where the bodies of human beings are fed to buzzards.

After crossing the Arabian Sea, the Empress of France entered the Gulf of Aden and proceeded up the Red Sea and through the Suez Canal to Port Said, then by train to Cairo.

Egypt was found very interesting. A voyage was made up the Nile about 500 miles. It was observed that the Nile valley between Cairo and Thebes is now well irrigated and thoroughly cultivated, producing three and four crops a year.

The tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen in the Valley of the Dead about eight miles from Luxor was the destination of a special excursion by donkey. They found this crypt carefully guarded and little excitement surrounding it. They also inspected the ruins of the warehouse where Joseph is alleged to have stored grain and wine for the seven year famine.

From Memphis, where are the ruins of the oldest city in the world, an excursion was taken to the Step-Pyramid.

"The stones of the pyramid we visited are between two and a half and three feet high, so that it impossible to step up," explained Mrs. McEnany. "You have to climb up every one or be pulled up by guides. It was a hot afternoon, and, when we got to the top, we knew that we had been somewhere," said Mrs. McEnany.

No desire to homestead in the Sahara desert was felt on the part of Dr. Rudy, who erected one of the first business buildings in Glendale. Although he admits that Egypt has the advantage of age, he is quite content with the United States.

Holy Land Commercialized

"The Arabs are very picturesque and quite a nuisance," reports Mrs. McEnany. 'Anyone who has ever been in Egypt can appreciate that I thought it quite interesting to see the long trains of camels start into the desert. Camels seem to have the most supercilious attitude. The camel drivers seemed always to be chanting."

Commercialism in the Holy Land was quite a disappointment to Dr. Rudy. He found that about the only two points of Biblical interest which may be seen without paying an admittance fee are the Dead sea and the Sea of Galilee. They were much impressed with the fact that a Mohammedan soldier is stationed inside the Church of the Nativity at Bethlehem to keep Christian sects from coming

EDISON CONCERN CALLS MEETING

Stockholders to Hear About Financial Project For Furthering Growth

Hundreds of stockholders of the Southern California Edison company in Glendale and vicinity, received notification from President John B. Miller yesterday that a special meeting had been called for September 7 at the Edison building, Los Angeles, for the purpose of authorizing a rearrangement and increase of the company's authorized stock capitalization and bonded indebtedness.

District Manager H. B. Fletcher said that the purpose of the proposed increased capitalization was for continuing the company's policy of planning ahead for the financing and construction of hydro-electric power to meet the ever-increasing demands of southern and central California.

Explaining the new plan of financing, District Manager Fletcher said:

"The increased authorized capital will provide a broad and strong foundation for financing through to completion more than a million additional horsepower to be installed on our Big Creek-San Joaquin project, together with the necessary transmission and distributing lines throughout the ten counties in which the Edison company render electric service. This expenditure in the next ten years is estimated to amount to $200,000,000.

Outlines Plan

"The plan which will be voted on is in brief as follows: The increase of authorized capital stock from $100,000,000 as at present, which consists of $60,000,000 of common stock and $40,000,000 of preferred stock, to $250,000,000 consisting of $125,000,000 of common stock and $125,000,000 of preferred stock.

"The stockholders will also be asked to approve an increase of the authorized bonded indebtedness of the company to $250,000,000. The vote of the stockholders is in the nature of an enabling act giving the directors power to sell bonds and stock as may be required. The stockholders' vote in itself does not actually create any bonded increase, as under the Public Utilities Act of California, neither bonds nor stocks can be sold by the directors except under authority of, and at prices fixed by, the State Railroad commission.

"The new plan when authorized will give us a financial setup which, it is expected, will take

Savant Tells Varieties Of Birds Building Nests In Oak Tree's Branches

PROF. ALFRED W. COOKMAN, Glendale scientist, of 336 West Pioneer drive, again appears in the columns of The Glendale Evening News with a sketch today on "Bird Secrets of An Oak Tree."

Prof. Cookman, in his scientific trips and studies, knows California thoroughly and his sketches appearing from time to time give one a keener appreciation of the atmosphere of the great out-of-doors of this great state.

By ALFRED COOKMAN, M. S.

California can boast of her climate, her flowers and singing birds. There is a lure "out where the west begins." Her mountains are crowned with perpetual snow and her valleys blossom with roses. She has natural resources unequaled. There is something about this state that appeals to the tourist, the bird-lover and the real estate man.

In the canyons and chaparral areas of the state of California and extending down the mountain slopes into the cities and parks are oak trees hundreds of years old—majestic and magnificent with huge trunks, rough bark and wide spreading branches. Typical of the west and evergreen, wherever they stand, Quercus agrifolia stands out prominent and majestic among the trees that adorn California.

For a number of years, the writer has been interested in the growth, structure and the development of the oak trees. We have so many interesting trees varying in size and structure. A study of the leaves and modes of branching of the various species is a study in itself for the lover of botany. The magnitude of the work of transpiration is an especially fascinating topic. Few people have any idea of the enormous quantities of water given off by leaves. It has been calculated that a healthy oak may have as many as 700,000 leaves, and that 111,225 kilograms of water—equal to about 244,700 pounds—may pass from its surface in the five active months from June to October. At this rate 226 times its own weight may pass through it in a year, and it would transpire water enough during that time to cover the ground shaded by it to a depth of 20 feet!

Birds Nest In Oaks

The writer wishes to present in this article, a list of some of the birds that are frequently found nesting in oak trees and mention briefly some species that rest in the shade of the spreading oak, or feed upon the insects that infest the bark and leaves, or the soil beneath the huge branches, where wild flowers bloom; where lilies nod; where sunflowers stare; serpents crawl or race madly here and there, and where the toad slumbers, while the chipmunks and ground squirrels chase one another round and around as if at play.

Wild cats, skunks, mountain lions, coyotes and coons have been shot at range under, or in the boughs of the live oak tree. Thousands of hunters, campers and motorists rest in the shade. All ages of human life have enjoyed pleasant hours of relaxation and rest beneath a tree where a nest of blue jays rests in the fork of a bough over head undisturbed, swaying lightly with the breeze and without fear unnoticed.

Storms beat down upon it; sometimes lightning flashes angrily, shooting daggers of electricity through the branches, now and then ripping away a primary bough or two, but seldom demolishing the old oak; winds sway the leaves and the dead growths fall like rain, but new leaves replace the fallen ones, and the life of the oak continues on and on. Centuries come and go. Civilization moves on. The mountains are Nature's towering sign-posts directing through the ages the migrations of restless races. Seasons change—winter, spring and summer—the oak sees it all. Birds nest here, feed and die. Mammals come, linger a while and move away. One generation is followed by another and another; time and change, and the biology of the seasons—the oak stands the test and "looks at God all day and lifts her leafy branches to pray. I think that I shall never see, a more lovely tree."

Varieties of Birds

During the nesting season of the wild birds of California, one may discover on the Baldwin Ranch, Southern California, nestling in the oak trees of this district, or possibly among the oaks in the San Gabriel mountains and in the arroyo seco near Pasadena, the following species of birds: California blue jay, Parkman's wren, California woodpecker, flicker, the red-shafted, spurred towhee, San Diego towhee, California brown thrasher, blue bird, barn owl, screech owl, long-eared owl, bush-tit, western horned owl, short-eared owl, spotted owl, sparrow nawk, red-tail hawk, cooper hawk, sharp-shinned hawk, western goshawk, ferruginous rough-legged hawk, golden

The Song of the Locusts

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY Ad Schuster

Pierpont Clyde listened to the song of birds and the whispering of winds and wrote verse. It took him a long time to make up his mind on any question, and those advances which he made, in a business way or toward acquaintanceship, were slow but effective. Pierpont won the affections of Nancy Brink and Nancy was quite the prettiest girl in Booneville.

It came to Pierpont suddenly one evening, this knowledge that he was in love. He hastened his steps toward the home of Nancy, resolved to tell her, to risk his happiness upon her response, and as he walked he made large plans for the future. Before he had reached the steps he had built a house, furnished it complete, and was debating upon the arrangement of flower beds.

Perhaps there was too much of assurance in Pierpont's manner. Again, it might have been Nancy gave in to the traditional temptation to keep her lover dangling. Pierpont led her to the side yard, brushed back his long hair with a poetic and determined gesture, and started in on the proposal he had framed.

"It is night," he said, "and the birds do not sing, and yet to me a mighty chorus of birds are singing!" Nancy felt certain the proposal was coming. He should falter and stumble, she thought. Instead, he was speaking with the grace and fluency of a practiced platform performer.

"What you hear," she said, "is not birds, but the locusts. It is the year of the seventeen-year locusts."

Pierpont tried to catch once more his train of thought. The locusts persisted. He floundered, mixed his phrases, and announced he had decided to honor Nancy by becoming her husband. Of course, that is not what he meant and Nancy knew it. She only refused him that he might try again another time.

"If it had not been for those locusts," Pierpont told himself as he walked home, "I might have won."

The second proposal did not come, for Pierpont was proud. To him a refusal meant a refusal and an end to hope. He wrote verses in the evenings, worked in a store days, and dodged Nancy whenever he saw her on the street. Habits are soon acquired. It was not long before they ignored each other. The months went into the years and Pierpont lost his poetic figure and gained a bank account. Nancy taught school.

For all the fact he was prosperous and flights of fancy came no more from his pen, Pierpont Clyde continued to dream. He contributed stealthily to many worthy causes, walked alone on moonlit evenings, and told himself, over and over as if to force conviction in his mind, that he was happy. In time he believed he had forgotten Nancy.

One night Pierpont, deep in thought, walked through the arches of maple and elm in the side streets of the town. For once he could not drive the thoughts of Nancy or his loneliness away.

"I had thought that was all put aside," he repeated angrily to himself, and he tried whistling and repeating doggerel. It was no use—the moon, or something, had him helpless. As if in the conspiracy, his aimless steps had carried him in front of the home of Miss Nancy. There was a light in her window. He would not stop.

Three times Pierpont walked past the house, fighting with the new and strange desire to rush in there and take up the thread of the old story. When he did, it was as if someone had shoved him violently up the walk. Nancy opened the door with a polite smile which hid her emotions.

"I came," said Pierpont, and then he paused—he did not know why he had come! Nancy still smiled. "I came to ask you to marry me!"

"And why," Nancy asked after it had been settled to their blissful satisfaction, "did you decide so suddenly, after all of these years of waiting?"

Why had he? Pierpont could not explain. They were standing on the porch now and from the trees came the answer.

"I have it," cried the lover, "it's the locusts! They've been singing at me all evening and I never noticed."

"The locusts!" Nancy smiled, but there were tears in her eyes. "The locusts and—seventeen years!"

FOR MODISH TRAVELERS

One could go to the ends of the earth in quest of a frock more charming than this one of dark brown flat crepe, but without success. The neck of the kimono blouse may be in either round or oval outline, while the skirt is trimmed with two gathered panels stitched with deep tucks. Turnback cuffs finish the short sleeves and the belt is of self-material. Medium size requires 4⅜ yards 36-inch material.

Pictorial Review Dress No. 1596. Sizes, 16 to 20 years and 34 to 44 inches bust. Price, 35 cents.

BANDS VARY THE SLIP-ON

This is truly a charming little frock for any season of the year, because it lends itself to development in any soft material. It is of the slip-on type with straight lines, the skirt being trimmed on either side with wide stitched bands of self-material. The blouse is slashed down the center of the front and bound with satin ribbon. Two fancy buttons hold the fronts together at the neck. Ribbon or the material used for the dress could be used for the girdle. Medium size requires 3¾ yards 36-inch material.

Pictorial Review Dress No. 1595. Sizes, 34 to 52 inches bust. Price, 35 cents.

ANSWERED LETTERS

Millie T. F.: To increase your weight at this season of the year, give preference to a light, nourishing diet, rather than the rich and heating foods used during other seasons for gaining weight. Drink plenty of milk. Take as much exercise in outings as possible. Sleep outside. When the weather becomes cooler, take a tablespoonful of olive oil three times each day. The latter can be made more palatable through adding an equal amount of grape juice to it.

Perplexed: As eczema comes from so many causes, it would be difficult to treat it without knowing the underlying cause. Some relief may be obtained through bathing with a weak solution of boracic acid. A reliable doctor should be consulted.

Overweight Ellen: All starchy foods are fattening, and you may include with these all sweets and oils. You can easily see which foods to avoid if you keep this in mind.

Mrs. S. K. T.: Your skin needs to be nourished with a good cream. Use a cleansing cream liberally and remove it with hot wet cloths which will open the pores. Follow this treatment with some good cream massage until the skin has absorbed all that is needed. Wipe of all surplus cream and apply a small piece of ice all over the surface that has been treated.

Perplexed Blond: The proportions of lemon juice and baking soda for keeping the hair light are a tablespoonful of juice and a third of a teaspoonful of soda to a quart of water. This should only be used as the final rinse after the shampoo.

William A. W.: The trouble with your scalp may not come from the work you are doing. If you are wearing stiff hats, change and wear only soft hats and caps, or go without any hat as much as possible during the summer. For dandruff, rub hot crude oil into the scalp the night before the usual shampoo. This oil can be purchased at any drug store or at paint shops. Shampoo with sulphur soap. After the shampoo rub a little olive oil into the scalp.

Admiring Reader: It is impossible to suggest a style of hair dressing when one has not seen the person. As a general rule, a woman who has a large nose looks best if the hair is pulled down a little on the sides and finished with a knot rather high on the back of the head.

Mrs. T. H. D.: Creams made from mineral oil are only cleansing; those for building the tissue are made from vegetable oils, such as almond or olive oil. If you will send me a self-addressed envelope I will send you a formula for a flesh-building cream. Use this for the lines and also rub the skin with a small piece of ice, which serves as an astringent.

Tomorrow—When You're Convalescing.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

THE UPKEEP OF LUXURIES

I am appalled by the upkeep of luxuries.

Not only do things cost more these days, but it costs more to keep them in the state of up-to-dateness which we gradually become accustomed to regard as necessary.

Suppose your mother had a real seal coat. She probably paid anywhere from $200 to $500 for it and wore it at least ten years without alteration, and was regarded as excellently well dressed. When she did finally have it fixed it cost her only a few dollars.

But what happens today? A friend of mine had a Hudson seal coat given her three years ago. It had been worn only a couple of years before it came to her and she was delighted with the gift. The first year, however, it developed a few rips and she had to have these fixed and the lining partly renovated. That cost her about $35. This year there are some worn places in the fur and it will have to be relined. She went to the furrier and found that it would cost her $125. She is a woman of very moderate means and it looks as if the upkeep of her gift would be too much for her.

Not Only Children and Automobiles

Another friend of mine is having the overstuffed davenport and chair in her living room recovered. She cannot find any material that is good enough to go on such handsome pieces of furniture at less than $12 a yard and she will have to buy fifteen yards. With the labor, the job will cost about $250. She has many other calls for her money just now and it is going to be hard to squeeze out that two hundred and fifty. "But what can you do?" she asks. "You can't put cheap stuff on that beautiful furniture, and what is the use of having good things if you let them get shabby?"

Plainly, there are other things besides automobiles and children which one needs to remember that "it isn't only the first cost you have to consider, it's the upkeep."

I have some friends who bought an expensive house at a bargain. At least, they thought it was a bargain. I am afraid it was not. They are about to make a few alterations in it, including an extra bathroom. When the bids came in from the contractors they were much larger than they had hoped and the bathroom may have to be given up.

They were showing me the specifications and I saw that the price for the bathroom fixtures was tremendous. "But I know you can get good looking things cheaper than that," I said. "Oh, yes, I suppose you could, but you know this is a beautifully built house and I wouldn't want to put anything but the best in," she said.

These people have a large family. They really would get an enormous amount of comfort out of that bath even if they did not have the most expensive pedestal bowl and the finest sunken porcelain tub. But they are pledged by the expensiveness of the house to put nothing but expensive things into it. So they will go without a comfort because they cannot have a luxury. That's another example of the cost of upkeep of a luxury.

You Become Their Slave

Luxuries call for luxuries. They do more than that. They beg for them incessantly, they demand them. And once you get involved, you will find yourself slaving away your life to answer their demands, or fretting it away because of your inability to do so.

I know of no greater service any wife can do her husband than to try to keep free from the enslavement of imperious luxuries. Two thousand years ago a very wise philosopher found need to warn a people who lived a comparatively simple existence that a man's life does not consist of the number of things he possesses. What would He have thought if What would he have thought if he could have seen our modern and yet more and costlier things?

STERILIZE YOUR SHAVING BRUSH

The need for the sterilization of shaving brushes which do not come from reliable manufacturers and bear their name, has been emphasized by quite a number of fatal cases of anthrax which have been contracted through the use of infected shaving brushes.

According to the weekly bulletin of May 29 sent out by the California State Board of Health, two men died in California from this terrible disease recently. I will tell you a little something about anthrax.

Anthrax is a disease which has been known for centuries. It is thought that it was one of the plagues of Egypt. It was finally settled by Robert Koch, in 1876, that it is due to a large, rod-shaped micro-organism which carries spores that will live for years—even as long as 18 years—and that will resist the ordinary methods of sterilization.

Anthrax is a very widespread disease. White mice, guinea pigs, rabbits, sheep, horses and men are susceptible. In animals it is called splenic disease; in man it is called wool sorters" disease (or malignant pustule when it attacks the skin.)

The infection occurs through the food, through the air and through the wounds. The infection through the food, giving rise to internal anthrax, is the common anthrax of cattle and sheep. The wool sorters usually get the disease through being infected by inhaling dust containing the spores which have been thrown off by the hides or the wool—or through wounds and scratches, when it affects the skin but may get into the general circulation. This occurs most frequently among tanners, wool sorters, veterinary surgeons and those whose occupations bring them in touch with infected animals, their hides or products.

In the districts where anthrax abounds, a perfectly healthy herd of sheep, eating the infected grass, may all be dead in 24 hours. The germs are so large and multiply so rapidly that all of the blood vessels are blocked with them.

There is not another disease that gives such a striking and terrible example of the fact that not all germs are scavengers—or that refutes more startlingly the theory that germs are the "results" of disease and not the cause, as claimed in the pernicious teachings of some pseudo-scientists.

One of the reasons Pasteur is idolized by France is because of his knowledge of this disease and the vaccine he perfected, for it saved the sheep industry in France.

Now don't any of you begin to worry about getting anthrax—because it is very rare in man except among those who handle infected hides—unless you are using an unsterilized shaving brush, which may be made from the bristles of an infected animal.

Tomorrow I will tell you about how to sterilize your shaving brushes. Meanwhile don't neglect to shave if you need it! Use a bit of cotton to swab the soap on.

A Reader: "How can I wash mended glass?"

Answer: You did not say how you mended it. If you used waterglass, white shellac dissolved in alcohol, or the commercial glass mending cement, the glass may be washed in cold water, but it cannot stand hot water. If, however, you used ordinary glue, you must merely rub the glass with a dampened cloth, taking care not to linger too long on the glued cracks.

M. M. B.: "Can you give me a recipe for Ginger Cake and Ginger Snaps?"

Answer: Ginger Cake: Cream together one cup of granulated sugar and one scant cup of butter; add one cup of molasses, the yolks of four eggs, one cup of sour milk in which two teaspoons of soda have been dissolved, two and one-half cups of bread flour mixed and sifted with one teaspoon each of ground cinnamon and ginger, and the stiffly whipped whites of four eggs. Turn into a buttered loaf-cake pan and bake in a moderate oven for forty-five minutes.

Ginger Snaps: Heat one cup of molasses and pour it over one-half cup of granulated sugar; mix well, then add one tablespoon of ground ginger, one teaspoon of baking soda, one-half cup of softened butter and flour to roll out very thin. Cut with a cookie cutter when you have rolled the dough as thin as cardboard, and bake on a greased cookie sheet for eight minutes in a hot oven.

From Ireland: "I am a young bride. The clothes I wash never look clean. What is the matter? I have no washing machine."

Answer: Do it this way, and the clothes will be beautifully clean: Soak the clothes over night, rubbing a little naphtha soap on cuffs of blouses and shirts, and on knees of underwear. In the morning put them in your wash boiler (fill the boiler two-thirds full of cold water and shave two-thirds of a bar of naphtha soap into it) and bring to the boiling point. For the first load, put in only your sheets and the best white things, boiling them for ten minutes. Then take them out and put them in cold water. Now fill your boiler with cold water again (using same amount of soap) and put into it the underwear and other things (unless they have wool in them). Light percales may go in for a few minutes. When these have boiled up, rinse in blueing water. Also give the other things a good blue rinsing. I know you will have luck with this method.

Tomorrow—Some Good Cheese Dishes.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. With the Women of Today

INTERESTING BITS ABOUT WOMEN

The National Committee of One Hundred for Law Enforcement which claims, through different organizations, to represent 10,000,000 women, recently sent a message to Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, asking that he reconvene the legislature to enact a new prohibition enforcement measure to "put New York in line with the other law-abiding states." It also sent a cable to Stanley Baldwin, prime minister of Great Britain, thanking his country for its respect of American law, and particularly for its action in sending British ships into American waters without liquor.

Though she is only twenty-five years of age, Countess Mafalda Trussoni, considered one of the most beautiful women in Italy, is known as the "Beauty in Black", she having lost five husbands in seven years.

Mrs. Helen P. Miliansky of Brooklyn, N. Y., is suing a large rubber concern for $60,000, claiming that much is due her for services in getting large quantities of rubber products sold to the Russian high commission in 1916.

Women drawn for jury duty in Beaver, Pa., will be provided with the luxuries of a boudoir, furnished with articles said to be near and dear to every woman's heart. Among the accessories will be twenty-eight mirrors, dressing tables, and lounge divans.

At the age of twenty years, Miss Vivian Cook of Mississippi is probably the youngest practicing attorney in the world.

Mrs. Corbete Ashby was elected president of the International Suffrage Alliance at the world suffrage congress held recently in Rome. Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt was the founder of the alliance and its president until this year, when she refused the honor. She was made first honorary president.

Mrs. Ashby is one of the best known suffrage leaders in England. She was a pioneer in the movement when it was anything but popular with the British masses. She braved many hostile audiences in her fight for the political recognition of women. She has lived to see women installed in parliament, and doing their best for the progress of the empire.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, one of the leaders of the suffrage movement in this country and ex-president of the International Women's Suffrage Alliance, returned from Europe recently, optimistic regarding the future outlook for women on the other side of the Atlantic. She predicted that in twenty-five years suffrage would be universal and that the next two European countries to enfranchise women would be France and Italy.

Mrs. Catt said that she had circled the globe twenty-five times in the interest of the advancement of woman suffrage. The International Women's Suffrage Alliance, she added, was attended by delegates from sixty-three countries.

"Mussolini," she said, "is a man who is cultivating all the classes. He caters to the working class, from which he came, and to the statesmen class to which he aspires. The Italian women are not satisfied with what he has done on their behalf, but I feel certain that if he remains in power another year the limited suffrage they seek will come to them."

eagle (rare), Turkey vulture "buzzard," western flycatcher, Cassin and Arkansas king birds, Anna, Costa, Allen and black-chinned humming birds, Bullock oriole, western wood pewee Phainopepla, California, shrike, "Butcher bird," green-tailed towhee, black-headed grosbeak, western tanager, and several species of warblers and the house finch.

The road-runner, the valley and the mountain quail exchange words and hurry here and there about the stump or trunk of the tree. The dove (mourning) and the wild dove from Mexico enjoy the shade of the oak. The mourning dove nests frequently in oak trees. The nuthatch, gnat-catcher, chickadee and the little creeper feed on the insect-life, racing from twig to twig, darting up and down the trunk, probing here and there and finding plenty of life to satisfy their ravenous appetites. Even orb weaving spiders spin silken tapestry, cocoons and snares among the branches of the oak.

Each and all have their part to play in the great economy of Nature. If the oak tree is fortunately situated near some desert area and cactus is growing nearby, the cactus wren would find the oak tree a convenient place to rest during intervals of time for he and his mate love the spiny leaf of the cholla cacti, and they nest in the crotch of thorns.

The writer has counted as many as 156 birds at one time in an oak tree. There were many of the same species. Three crows' nests were found in an oak tree in San Diego County. Some California woodpecker placed a thousand or more acorns in the bark of the tree. A barn owl was discovered sound asleep in a hole near the top-most part of the oak. Several lizards were sunning themselves on the huge brancnes and six Holstein cows were grazing beneath the spreading branches. Scenes like this are common occurrences. You never can tell just what to expect in the way of living things that secrete themselves in the realm of the live oak tree.

The very next time you sit beneath the shade of an oak note the abundance of life in and around the tree, and listen to the call-notes of the jay, the wren, the towhee and the brush-tits and you will be impressed with the majesty of the grand, old monarch of the foothills of the "Golden State."

TODAY—Derelict Row in Los Angeles; Homeless "Salts" Must Drift."

TOMORROW—Not Worth While; "Bob" Battle On, by Jack Hornaday, Kansas City correspondent.

By WILLIAM G. CAYCE
For International News Service

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—"Derelict Row," that queer and quaint haven of human "hulks" and failures from all parts of the world, a famous landmark in San Pedro, is to go.

Commerce, which knows no sentiment or sympathy, has bought it out. The channel of Los Angeles Harbor is to be widened and "Derelict Row" lies in the path of the new improvement, and soon ships from every port will be weaving real romance where before shabby denizens of the wharves merely spun yarns.

"Derelict Row" is on Terminal Island. It is a pleasing and fine place to watch life idle by, if you are no longer essential to it. That is what these poor unfortunates long have been doing. Every port city has its "Derelict Row."

The local "Derelict Row" started thirty-five years ago, when a sea captain lost his papers because of too much grog, or perhaps something more serious, and settled there.

There is an old saying that success attracts the successful." So does failure attract failures, and soon others who had been trodden on by defeat were pouring in from everywhere.

There were men whom youth had deserted; fishermen who had been unsuccessful in their catches, or perhaps they were unseeking; able-bodied seamen who had at the time sang a mean chanty and warmed along the docks with the best of 'em; dock workers without jobs or hopes of getting any; adventurers who had failed. They had come from everywhere, and their one ambition was to hibernate where those who had been successful would not stumble on them. They found that haven in Derelict Row."

A better location, considering the purpose, could not have been chosen for "Derelict Row." Here those who are unable to eke out a hand-to-mouth existence get enough fishing for a meal from this man, supplies from another, and make extra money occasionally by selling fish to outsiders.

Though it is in the very heart of the harbor district, "Derelict Row" is isolated. It lies across a quarter of a mile of sand dunes, and because they are hard to traverse they are safe from prying eyes. Their homes, such as they are, are usually small houseboats and shacks, with no landlords or traffic cops to mar their living.

The Row is close to the channel, and the inhabitants cannot only see the ships pass but can command a bird's-eye view of the entire San Pedro district. The residents do not get lonesome. They are too close to the water, and to nearly all of them the water is their home element.

By day they listen to the hum of commerce, and at night they gather around a fire and tell vivid stories of when they were in their prime. They admit they are at least satisfied.

"Why did we name it 'Derelict Row'?" One of the failures repeated the question. "You know," he said seriously, "a derelict is—a wreck piled on the beach, or a vessel that is no longer useful, drifting this way and that.

"Well, that's us. But now we will have to drift along somewhere else. Our only hope is that we can find some place where they don't charge rent and where we can end our days in peace."

The decision to drive the derelicts from their haven on Terminal Island was reached when the business of the harbor had expanded to such an extent that added facilities were necessary.

It has been definitely decided upon to widen the channel, and "Derelict Row" lies in the path of the improvement. Port Warden Terry has already served notice to the "residents" of Terminal Island that them must "move on."

Where will they go? That is what they are asking themselves.

RADIO

BY FRANK CHAPMAN

REGENERATIVE SETS

Regenerative sets are required to pick up distant stations where you are not using radio frequency amplification. There is little difference in signal strength between a good crystal detector and an audion when connected to a non-regenerative circuit. As previously emphasized, to get best results from the audion detector you must take advantage of the regenerative action which allows the audion to detect and amplify.

The most common type of regenerative set is that employing a vario-coupler and a variable condenser in series with the primary, the rotor coil being connected in the plate circuit, acting as a feed back or tickler coil. The incoming signal is detected and due to the natural amplifying properties of the tube, the strength is increased and passed to the tickler coil, which is connected in inductive relation to the primary or grid coil and in turn induces an amplified signal back to the grid again, which amplifies the signal many times. A test of this can be made while receiving. With the set working good, take a piece of wire and short circuit the tickler coil by connecting the wire across the terminals of the tickler. There will then be a big reduction in signal strength due to the regenerative action being stopped. The difference between the strength of the two signals is the reason for your being able to pick up distant stations with a regenerative hookup.

If a vario-coupler is used without regeneration it may be due to the fact that the tickler coil is not assisting, but rather, bucking the other. This can be determined by merely changing connections to the tickler coil. To ascertain if the set is connected correctly, you first tune in a station and then, either turn the filament a little higher or turn the tickler coil in, and if the signal, in the case sparks, gets mushy, or voice becomes distorted in the case of radiophone, regeneration is taking place.

A bad feature of regenerative sets is their habit of starting to oscillate when listening to weak signals. This is more noticeable in home-made sets and is probably due to faulty construction, especially in the single circuit type.

Another type of regenerative set employs a vario-coupler and a variometer the former acting as the primary and secondary and the latter as the plate variometer to control regeneration. Some of these sets have a variable condenser shunted around the secondary for tuning this circuit while others have a grid variometer. The latter type is very critical of adjustment, is usually very difficult to adjust and is bothered with body capacity.

Still another type of regenerative circuit employs either honeycomb or spider web coils using one each, for the primary, secondary and tickler. The primary usually has a variable condenser in series with it while the secondary has one shunted around it. The secondary coil is stationary while the primary and tickler are moveable.

A very popular regenerative set employs two variometers, one for tuning (primary) and the other to control regeneration. The latter is in the plate circuit. Fixed or variable condensers may be used in series with the primary variometer to shorten the natural wave length so that short wave stations may be copied.

Regeneration may also be obtained by connecting the plate to the aerial as shown in the drawing. There are various modifications of this circuit, all patterned after the ultra audion of De Forest.

Pointers

Having your battery fully charged is the only way to enjoy broadcasting programs.

Two steps of amplification working right will give better than three steps not functioning properly.

The difference between an indoor and out-door aerial is one step of amplification.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY SHOWS SAMMY HOW

One day Sammie Littletail, the rabbit boy, hopped over to the hollow stump bungalow where Uncle Wiggily Longears lived with Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"Is Uncle Wiggily in?" asked the rabbit boy of the muskrat lady housekeeper.

"Yes, I'm here, Sammie," answered Mr. Longears for himself. "But I'm not going to play any more croquet games."

"No, I didn't come to ask you that," spoke Sammie, as Uncle Wiggily laughed and twinkled his pink nose. "But mother sent me over to ask you to show me how."

"Show you how to what?" inquired the gentleman rabbit.

"How to dig a burrow or underground house," went on Sammie. "My mother says I'm getting to be a big rabbit now, and that soon I shall want a house of my own. She says you can teach me to dig a burrow better than anyone else."

"Hum!" murmured Uncle Wiggily, thoughtful like. "Well, Sammie, perhaps I can do that better than I can play croquet or golf, for I used to be quite a burrow digger when I was young—not that I want to boast or seem proud. But come to the garden—I'll teach you all I know about digging underground houses."

"Why don't you live in an underground house yourself, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Sammie.

"I find the hollow stump bungalow is drier and better for my rheumatism," answered Mr. Longears, "but burrows, or underground houses, are best for young rabbits. Now here is a good soft place to start digging your burrow, Sammie," and Uncle Wiggily pointed to a smooth place in his garden. "Begin to dig a slanting hole into the earth, using your front paws, and kick the dirt away from you."

Sammie knew something of digging, for he and Susie had often made little play burrows, and Sammie was a very good digger. Soon he was making the dirt fly just as you may have seen your dog do when he was burying a bone, or digging up one he had hidden the week before.

After he had been digging for a little Sammie stopped and said:

"There, I guess the burrow is deep enough; isn't it, Uncle Wiggily?"

"Gracious goodness sakes alive, no!" cried the rabbit gentleman. "A burrow must be very deep, indeed, and it must twist and turn this way and that way under the earth like the letter S. Go on, dig deeper, Sammie."

"Why?" asked the rabbit boy, who was tired.

"Because if you do not make a deep burrow," answered Uncle Wiggily, "Wolves, Foxes, Ferrets, Weasels and other bad animals can easily crawl in to get your little rabbits when you grow up and raise a family. Baby rabbits have no fur when they first come into the world, and they haven't their eyes open. They are blind, like little puppies. So if you do not learn to dig a deep burrow, to keep the little baby rabbits safe from the weasels, there will be a dreadful time. Dig much deeper, Sammie, and curve the borrow this way and that like an S."

Sammie dug deeper, and he had

"Get away from here!" cried Uncle Wiggily.

made a pretty good burrow for a boy rabbit. Uncle Wiggily was watching when, all at once, Sammie said:

"Oh, I can't dig any farther, Uncle Wiggily!"

"Why not?" asked the bunny uncle. "Are you tired? You are young and strong and shouldn't give up so easily. When you grow up and have a burrow of your own you will get tired many times, but you will have to keep on working, digging burrows and getting food for your little rabbits. Why do you stop digging now, Sammie? Dig on!"

"But there's a big stone here—I can't dig any farther!" whined Sammie. "The stone is in the way!"

"Then we must get the stone out," said Uncle Wiggily. So the bunny uncle, with his stronger paws, dug around the stone, and he and Sammie rolled it out of the burrow. And it is a good thing they did, for just then a hungry weasel slunk along, looking for rabbits to nibble.

"Get away from here!" cried Uncle Wiggily, and he rolled the stone on the weasel's toes and made him run away yelping.

"I have learned two things," said Sammie, when his underground house was finished. "One is not to give up because you meet a stone, and the other is not to be afraid of weasels when you meet them."

"That's right," said Uncle Wiggily, and he bought Sammie a rubber balloon with a picture on it of Mr. Longears himself. And if the ice cream doesn't catch cold by staying in the freezer all night, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily showing Susie.

Timely Views of World Topics

"EDUCATION TOO SOFT; PUBLIC'S MONEY WASTED," SAYS O. S. U. HEAD

Education is becoming too "soft." Too much time is spent teaching children things they can learn better outside of the class room, with a resultant waste of public money.

Dr. W. O. Thompson

These were two of the principal criticisms aimed recently against modern education by Dr. W. O. Thompson, president of Ohio State University, in a recent address before teachers.

At the same time Dr. Thompson warned the teachers that the public is beginning to question some of their motives.

"The great amount of interest you are taking in taxation, bond issues and things of that sort is giving rise to the suspicion that you are primarily thinking about your own interests, especially your own salaries, instead of the interests of the children," he said. "I don't say that is true, but you must put yourselves right before the public.

"You school people, too, have got to recognize your responsibilities to the taxpayers in money matters. You ought to be thinking about that every time you make a budget.

Overspecialization Is Charge

"A great deal of money is being wasted now by overspecialization of the curriculum. You too often assume that the boy and girl do not learn anything except under your direction. The fact is that they are learning all the time; every time they walk home from school they are learning new things about life.

"The modern boy of 10 or 11 is reading books his grandfather never read. Good books, too. You must recognize that fact and quit trying to teach facts he can learn better in some other way."

Dr. Thompson said he believed there was too much manual training in the schools. Teaching of handicraft should aim at the fundamentals and eliminate a great deal of the teaching of specialized operations in carpentry.

"People aren't sending their children to you that they may learn how to make money," he said, "but so that they can become better rounded men and women.

Common Labor Hit

"The dearth of common labor today is due in a measure to education. People see that common labor is getting the hot end of the poker—that the laborer isn't getting out of life what everybody wants."

Fail to Test

Intelligence tests, which since the war have enjoyed a vogue among educators, failed to test moral purpose, personality, social adaptability and motives, he asserted.

"In short," he said, "they fail to tell you the most important things you need to know about children. Giving some educators intelligence tests to play with is a good deal like giving a small boy a sharp knife. Maybe he will whittle something useful with it, but he needs watching, or he may make a miscue and cut his throat.

"We need more sportsmanship in education. We need more of the moral courage that buckles up against life determined to fight one's way through. We have been looking too much for the soft way, to relieve children of the necessity of doing any fighting or any thinking.

"We need a change in attitude, and the teacher must change her attitude first."

Jimmie was 6 years old and his brother Charlie 7, says Karikaturen, Christiania. Charlie fell ill on Jimmie's birthday and missed the party, and when the younger brother came upstairs to go to bed he said to the elder: "Gee, but it was great! If you get sick on your birthday, too, can I borrow it?"

Billy Whiskers

By Frances Trego Montgomery

In yesterday's story, you recall Billy butted the man who had turned the hose on him when he wanted a drink.

With a cry of pain the fellow doubled up like a jacknife and rolled over on the ground. But he forgot to let go of the hose. Consequently every time he turned over or moved his arms, the hose sent a stream of water in a different direction.

Just at that moment an old woman came down the sidewalk, a basket of strawberries on her arm. The man jumped to his feet and run after Billy, and accidentally turned the hose on the old woman. With a scream of rage she threw up her arm to cover her face, and spilled all her berries.

"I'll beat the life out of you, you old goat, if I ever catch you!" cried the man, starting on a dead run for Billy.

Billy stood still, with head lowered, to butt him again when he was near enough, but he never got there for the man caught his foot in a coil of the hose and tumbled in the wet grass.

While he was picking himself up, and the old woman was busy wiping the water from her eyes with the end of her shawl, Billy and Nannie trotted off down the street as unconcernedly as if nothing had happened.

Three policemen in a patrol wagon coming along just then, the old woman hailed them and insisted that they arrest the man, telling them that she was walking peacefully along when this crazzy fellow who was now rolling on the ground jumped up and turned his hose on her, making her spill all her nice, fresh berries which she was taking to a rich lady who always gave her a good price. And now her berries were all spilled, and the wealthy lady would be disappointed and she herself would lose all her money, and this she needed badly as she was very, very poor.

All the time she was pouring her tale of woe into the ears of the policeman, the man held the hose in his hand and every once in a while he would make a gesture and throw a stream of water over them all.

"Here, you idiot! Drop that hose or turn the water off! Can't you see you are drenching all of us?" commanded one of the policemen.

(Tomorrow you see what happened next to the cross man.)

Dinner Stories

The wife of a great botanist beamed at him across the supper table, says Everybody's.

"And these," she said, "pointing to a large dish of mushrooms set before her, "are all—all for me?"

"Yes, dear," he replied. "I gathered them especially for you."

She smiled at him fondly. What a considerate and thoughtful husband he was! In a short time, with great relish, she had devoured the lot. At the breakfast table next morning her husband greeted her anxiously.

"Sleep well last night?" he inquired.

"Splendidly!" she purred.

"No illness at all—no pains?" he pressed.

"Why, of course not, Fred! You needn't worry about my health."

"Hurrah, then!" exclaimed the botanist. "At last I have discovered a new species of mushroom that isn't poisonous."

"Pa," said Clarence, "what is the irony of fate?"

"Well, there's the case of old man Fogey, he said he would rather walk than ride in automobiles because they were so dangerous, and while he was seeking safety by walking an automobile knocked him into kingdom come," replied his dad.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

One Spur of the Moment

By Roy K. Moulton

"Madam, how old are you?"

"Twenty-six," said the lady, who is thirty-six if she is a day.

"Very well," said the judge, politely. "I asked you that question because if I hadn't it would surely have been asked you when the attorney for the defense cross-examined you. And now you have told us your age, do you swear to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth?"

Automobile concerns often get letters from "satisfied owners," but people who sell garden seeds do not so frequently get letters from "satisfied gardeners." One seed concern, which gets out a magnificent catalogue, recently received a letter from a customer and the following extracts are taken from it:

"The tomato plants would have been a great success if I could have induced them to bloom, but they merely grew up and passed away without issue as it were.

"The red globe beets, so prettily pictured on the package, turned out to be morning glory vines, which spread into my lettuce bed and choked the lettuce heads until they became black in the face.

"Something spoiled the string beans. Instead of growing in strings they grew in pods and, unable to get air, soon died.

"My potatoes grew up and fell over and bloomed, and then the blossoms died and not a potato appeared on the vines. I thought there would be a potato on every blossom. Probably I planted the potatoes with their eyes shut.

"But everything I planted came up. My dog dug up the turnips, and neighbors' hens scratched up the radishes, and cut-worms chewed up some of the beans, and then the water department men, putting in new pipes, dug up the other things, so that I have no kick coming."

Veterans to Enroll For College Course

SACRAMENTO, July 24.—Approximately 750 veterans will be enrolled in state universities and colleges as wards of the State Veterans' Welfare Board when the fall semester opens, it was announced today by Robert F. Smith, secretary of the board.

Since its creation two years ago, Smith said that the state veterans' board has administered educational rehabilitation to 803 former soldiers and sailors. Education of the veterans has cost the state $300,000, the secretary said.

Smith also announced that California wounded or disabled war veterans who have dependents can secure state aid with which to buy farms and homes within sixty days from the date of their applications.

Neighbors Hail From Paradise and Hell

AUBURN, July 24.—Pine street, a new thoroughfare recently opened up here, numbers among its residents a man from Hell and a woman from Paradise, thereby clinching its right to being known as the most cosmopolitan avenue in the city.

C. F. Richter, Auburn's jovial postmaster, is the gentleman from Hell. He was born in Hell, Norway, and came to the United States as a young man.

Mrs. H. E. Culver, who lives across the street from Richter, came here from Paradise, Butte county.

But a few doors from the gentleman from Hell and the lady from Paradise lives the grand Bible bearer of the Masonic lodge in California, M. D. Lininger.

Sues for License to Buy Milk and Cream

SACRAMENTO, July 24.—Director G. H. Hecke of the State Department of Agriculture and Dr. J. P. Iverson, head of the division of animal industry, are named as defendants in a petition for a writ of mandate filed here by C. H. Hansen, local creameryman, who seeks to compel the agricultural department to grant him a license to buy milk and cream on a butter-fat basis.

Hecke denied Hansen a license after the latter is alleged to have admitted falsifying the creamery's records relative to purchases from dairymen.

BACK FROM TRIP AROUND WORLD

Mrs. James B. McEnany and Brother, Dr. Rudy, Home From Journey

to blows over the ownership of the manger.

"Pretty nearly every place you go there they expect you to pay," explained Dr. Rudy. Usually they do not have a set fee, and no matter how much you pay, they expect more."

Following a two weeks' cruise on Lloyd-Triestino on the Mediterranean, the vessel upon which they were passengers passed through the Dardanelles. Opposite the plains of Troy they saw crosses marking the graves of 120,000 soldiers in an immense field of waving blood-red poppies. They also saw in the Hellespont the upper halves of several British battleships sunk during the war.

The city of Constantinople, with its beautiful harbor, its thousand minarets piercing the sky-line and its huge mosques, was of special interest.

"I saw no architecture which impressed me more than the mosques of Constantinople," asserted Dr. Rudy. "The Blue mosque is an immense building which is entirely supported by four pillars 100 feet in diameter. There are no buildings as large as these in this country. You have to take your shoes off when you enter. There is no furniture, and the floors are spread with Turkish rugs several hundred years old. The walls are covered with the most beautiful inlaid decorations."

Call to Prayer

One of the picturesque features of the Mohammedan religion, according to Mrs. McEnany, is the call to prayer by the muezzins from the minaret towers. This is a musical chant and lasts about five minutes. As soon as it is heard, all Mohammedans hurry to their homes, to the nearest public fountain, wash their feet, their arms, their face, their nose and their mouth, and then kneel with their face toward Mecca for their prayers. As this call to prayer is repeated five times a day—an hour before dawn, and hour after dawn, at noon, an hour before sunset and at sunset—it keeps Mohammedans on the jump.

One of the most interesting points of interest in Greece, according to Dr. Rudy, is the Corinthian canal. This is four miles long, and most of it has been cut out of walls of sandstone 175 feet high. The water in the canal is about twenty-three feet deep and its sides are just wide enough to permit a ship to pass.

A number of places of interest in Italy were visited, including Brindisi, Naples, Florence, Venice and Milan. The journey into Switzerland was via the Simplon tunnel. Here they visited both Zurich and Berne. The Swiss Alps, like the Himalayas, covered with snow, were wonderfully beautiful.

"Conditions seem to be good in Germany," remarked Mrs. McEnany. "Everybody seemed to be busy, and there seemed to be little poverty. Really, if it were not for financial conditions, you would never know that there had been a war."

In order to observe Dutch customs, which have been supplanted with modern ways in Amsterdam, Dr. Rudy and Mrs. McEnany visited the island of Markin. Here the natives still wear wooden shoes and colorful clothes. Many of them have never been off the island.

Travel By Airplane

The journey between Paris and London was made by airplane. This is now a regularly accepted method of travel in Europe.

The trip across the Atlantic from Southampton to Quebec was made in the Empress of Scotland. Arriving in Canada, they went down the Montreal river and then by rail to New York City. After a week's rest, Mrs. McEnany proceeded to Washington, where she visited her niece, Mrs. Walter Scott Acheson. The trip across the continent was made over the Pennsylvania railroad to Chicago and then over the Union Pacific to Los Angeles. At Salt Lake City she stopped to visit a sister, Mrs. William S. Marks, who was a recent visitor in Glendale.

Mrs. McEnany returned Saturday afternoon and Mr. Rudy, who came by a more direct route, left New York later and arrived Sunday morning.

Provides Funds for New Fish Hatcheries

SACRAMENTO, July 24.—Announcement is made by George Radcliff, chairman of the State Board of Control, that he has made $64,000 available to the State Fish and Game Commission for the construction of two new fish hatcheries and repair of existing plants. The money allotted the commission came from the unexpended balance of the commission's revenues.

Except for the money just alloted by Radcliff for new fish propagating plants, the Fish and Game Commission is temporarily penniless, not even having money for salaries of employes. Funds of the department will be tied up until the supreme court rules on the plan of Mrs. Nellie Brewer Pierce, Governor Richardson's budgetmaker, to divert the fees of the board to the general fund.

Family Rows Barred From Police Court

SACRAMENTO, July 24.—Family rows are taboo in California's capital city under an edict handed down by Police Judge O. W. Anderson. "But if you must fight, don't tell it to the judge," the jurist admonishes.

Judge Anderson after hearing twenty-four witnesses in a neighborhood quarrel case, declared that in the future when rows are aired in police court both parties will be fined.

COMMENT

That's All

Humans and Their Grudge.
Hiram Looks Them Over
Europe Needs Our Gold.
Trade Cyclone for Quake?

By Gil A. Cowan

ONE MR. HEINZ made fifty-seven varieties of pickles famous, but it looks as though fifty-seven varieties of children are going to make Dr. Helon B. Allen of Sabot, W. Va., more or less notorious.

Seems he has had the habit of adopting poor young ones in the south and rearing them as his own. From all evidences he has succeeded in gathering together quite a retinue, although of late he has been playing hide and seek with the long arm of the law.

The Doctor declares he is the victim of a grudge. Perhaps someone begrudges him the happiness of so many good looking daughters. Yet is it not a fact that the man who does the most for human beings gets little out of it? Doctors, nurses, pastors and the like have only the pleasure of duty well done.

Most men are measured by their money, few for their brains, and only singular instances are found where benefactors of humanity get even a heartfelt handshake for their good work.

The United States of America is going to learn something of European politics, international affairs, if you please, that has been seen in the western eyes of Hiram Johnson.

California's senior senator has returned to this country after a visit "over there" in which he made use of an automobile for observation purposes. He was not a plenipotentiary or a member of a commission or even a dignitary worthy of special courtesies, although he undoubtedly fared well.

It was just Hiram Johnson, himself, who went out of his own country to find out why America should be the cynosure of all eyes in world affairs, and undoubtedly he has found out.

As the old song goes, "It's money, money, money."

Europe needs our money. It has to have our gold. Otherwise it cannot do business, and there matters stand. But the thinking person, conversant with history, will appreciate the fact that Germany, Russia and France really have not gone to work with a view of doing without money.

Of the major allies, England and Italy are the two nations which apparently are endeavoring to do the right thing by their American friends. Little or nothing is expected of Belgium, and, as the principal sufferer of the war, this nation may be excused from criticism.

Russia nas repudiated everything. The Germans have done worse. They have endeavored to make the collection of reparations impossible. And France has added to the difficulty by placing troops in the Ruhr and practically choking the Berlin government.

A nice mess they have made of it. When France was compelled to pay Germany in 1871 it set about the job in an earnest manner, close to $5 in gold being contributed each week by every worker toward the war debt. If Germany would only do likewise!

As for Russia, there is little hope of financial stability until some iron-heeled dictator takes charge of a people who do not know their own mind. Lenine might have been the man but for his lack of faith. And communism is too costly in national wealth, anyway.

It will take both Russia and Austria a hundred years to work out their salvation. Yet that is no reason why America should not awaken them to their economic responsibility. Czecho-Slovakia, Poland and several other war-torn countries are getting by very nicely, built as they are on faith.

Summing it up, it isn't money that we need so much as faith. It is not more laws, but obedience to those we have. It isn't courts and mandates, but a desire to do right. That's what's needed here in Glendale, in Los Angeles county, in California, in the United States and in the world today.

Do you expect it, however? Not unless you believe the millennium has arrived, and the two or three earthquakes of the last few days are no indication that we are anywhere near the hallelujah hour.

Speaking of earthquakes gives rise to the belief that California, and particularly the southland, will get columns of free advertising in the eastern papers. We can just see them leveling this lovely land of ours.

Faith and begorra, as an Irishman might say, the papers will print everything but the truth. Verily, we can see the casualty lists, the pictures of shattered buildings, the harrowing stories of eye-witnesses filling column after column, when the fact of the matter remains that no one was killed, practically no sane person was injured, although fifty inmates of Patton insane asylum got hurt in a mad scramble, and, so far as known, no building was wrecked.

What's more, there is no one here who wouldn't trade an occasional earthquake for all the thunder and lightning they have "back east." But we can't have everything, so let's be satisfied, even with publicity, good, bad or indifferent.

ASSOCIATION TO STAGE EXHIBIT

Glendale Art Body Will Make Display During Month of August

The August exhibit of the Glendale Art Association will be devoted exclusively to California artists, announces L. T. Rowley, who presided at last Friday night's meeting at the Public Library, in the absence of Mrs. Roy A. Ballagh, president of the association.

"All artists who desire to enter the August exhibit must have their work in the juvenile room of the library by July 29," Mr. Rowley states. "This exhibit will continue through the month and we hope every person in Glendale, including the children, will make a special point of seeing it. The exhibit will be unquestionably worth while and will include subjects covering a wide range of theme and treatment.

Artist to Speak

"In connection with the August exhibit, Mrs. Julia Steelman Nichols, a prominent California artist, critic and collector, will address the Glendale Art Association Sunday afternoon, August 5, at the Public Library, on 'Californian Artists,' giving a talk that will be welcome to many residents of this community who would like to know more about the artists living and working among them."

Mrs. Peter Krasnow was the principal speaker at last Friday night's meeting. Her topic was "Mediocrity in Art," and she read a paper on that subject by Forbes Watson, upholding mediocre art in preference to no art at all.

Mrs. Krasnow then attacked Mr. Watson's thesis, arguing that "we must have the best in art or none."

"For art is not created by the masses," she said, "and therefore should not be weighed by the standards of the masses but rather valued by the few who understand art and know it for the priceless thing it is."

Will Ask Imposition Of Fruit Quarantine

SACRAMENTO, July 24.—Request that rigid plant quarantine regulations be observed at the ports of New York, Boston and Philadelphia to guard against introduction of the Mediterranean fruit fly, will be made of Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace by California agriculturists when the federal farm head arrives here with President Harding, it was announced today by Director G. H. Hecke of the State Department of Agriculture.

care of the company's needs for the next twenty years.

60,000 Stockholders

"The enlargement of capital involves no fundamental changes in the right of any stockholder or bondholder. It merely provides the larger structure which the increasing business and investment of our company has made necessary. Our company's organization now comprises over 5000 regular employes, and over 60,000 stockholders. With the combination of popular ownership, private management, and public regulations, it constitutes, in the judgment of our board of directors, the most efficient and satisfactory instrumentality for meeting the exacting obligations incident to rapidly increasing demand for service, arising from growth of population and the wider and more extensive uses of electricity for light, heat and power, which it has been the policy of our company to stimulate in the interests of the public."

Building A Great Bigger Los Angeles Industry

To meet the growing demand for its products, The IMPERIAL COTTON MILLS COMPANY of Los Angeles must double its present capacity.

The tremendous and immediate success of the first 20,000 spindle unit has proven Los Angeles to be the logical textile milling center of the West.

The Pacific Coast annually consumes over 150,000,000 yards of cotton cloths which are largely supplied from Eastern mills at high transportation cost. To serve this established market IMPERIAL COTTON MILLS COMPANY is manufacturing, from Imperial and Salt River Valley cotton, staple cloths which defy competition both in quality and price.

The mill's entire output of 14,000,000 yards per annum is entirely sold in advance. Over 500 persons are employed operating 20,000 spindles with nearly 600 looms. Yet present machinery and equipment can produce but a small percentage of the goods required in this immediate territory.

In order to provide for the new buildings, new equipment and necessary working capital to double mill production, the Company is now offering a limited portion of its

8% Cumulative Preferred Stock

Price $100 per share. Fully Paid and Non-assessable. Participating up to 12% with the Common Stock. Convertible into Common Stock at $125.

On the basis of present earnings, annual net profits from doubled production are estimated at more than 2½ times the amount necessary for annual cash dividends of 12% on all outstanding Preferred and Common Stock.

Every Southern California Investor Will want to share in the large and dependable profits of this great local industry. Over $500,000 of Preferred Stock has been sold during the last five days. It is important that you call—or send name and address at once—for complete information. No obligation on your part.
